Postal officials tinker with electronic mail idea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, concerned that traditional mail service may become obsolete, is studying ways of harnessing new technology to send some types of mail electronically.

Concepts now under preliminary consideration would use microwave and satellite technology to transmit messages.

In the two centuries since Benjamin Franklin established the nation's postal system, mail handling has always meant hand-shipment of a message from one point to another. But postal officials say the concepts now under study are:

—An "urgent message service," under which a message could be transmitted electronically between post offices. A facsimile of the original could be picked up at a distant post office within an hour of when it was sent. As an alternative, the copy could be delivered to a business address within four hours.

—"Lettergram," a service similar to the present Mailgram but designed for mass mailings. Electronic transmission could be used to send one message to post offices in various locations. Copies could then be delivered to individual recipients.

—An airline ticketing service, whereby an airplane ticket could be ordered by telephone. The ticket could be printed in a post office and delivered by the Postal Service the day after it was ordered.

Postal officials discussed the concepts at a recent conference of the Direct Mail Marketing Association.

Robert R. Jordan, director of the Postal Service's office of product management, said in an interview that none of the concepts is close to being put into practice and all would be subject to tests.

The closest thing to electronic mail yet tried is Mailgram, which postal officials consider a success. That service began in 1970. Now 95,000 Mailgrams are sent daily through Western Union's electronic transmission facilities and delivered by the Postal Service.

Under the systems now being considered, the Postal Service itself could for the first time transmit messages electronically.

Postal officials were asked at the conference whether electronic mail systems wouldn't compete with message systems being set up by private industry as the technology becomes available.

"We are not trying to provide predatory competition to anyone," said J.T. Ellington, senior assistant postmaster general. "But we do have unique delivery facilities already in place and it's proper for us to look into whether they can and should be used in combination with electronic message technology."

Postal officials are looking into new services as use of traditional mail declines. The drop in mail usage is expected to continue as more postal functions are taken over by electronic systems.

Some officials feel the Postal Service must enter the electronic field or risk being rendered obsolete by technological change and postal unions, concerned about jobs, are pressing for an aggressive move into electronic mail.

"There are many questions remaining to be answered. Now we are simply looking at what the possibilities are," Ellington said.

MASS BURIAL

The first mass burial for earthquake victims was held in Mariano, Italy, Sunday. Coffins of 89 victims were lowered into the ground. The Thursday quake has killed 815 persons, and left another 150,000 homeless. New tremors rolled through northeastern Italy early today but no casualties were reported. Fifty aftershocks have hit the area.

Found in raid on N.Y. shop

NEW YORK (AP) — Secret Service agents say they have cracked a major counterfeiting operation by seizing more than $20 million in fake $100 bills and arresting six men at a printing plant.

Agents arrested the men early Sunday in a raid on the Phoenix Printing Plant Co., in a residential section of the Bronx.

Authorities said it was one of the largest seizures of phony money ever made in the metropolitan area. They said bogus bills worth about $5.5 million were ready for circulation with the remaining $15 million partially printed.

Those arrested were identified as John W. O'Leary, 40; Americo Lombardi, 39; Philip N. Priore, 44; and Rudy DeBeradino, 51, all of the Bronx; William T. Quinn, 44, of Longwood, Fla., and Kenny Ransingh, 36, of Queens.

Five of the men were captured inside the printing shop in the process of cranking out the bills and the sixth was apprehended in his car with completed bills worth about $100,000, agents said.

Albert Whitaker, head of the local Secret Service office, described the bills as "highly passable." He said they were probably intended for professional counterfeit money passers.

DeBeradino was awaiting trial on a charge of passing counterfeit Treasury bills last year, according to Whitaker. He said the investigation of the plant began when agents observed DeBeradino entering it about three months ago.

FBI finds no organized effort behind cross fires

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An FBI agent says investigation of a series of cross burnings has turned up no concrete evidence of an organized hate campaign against blacks.

But the FBI and local police say they have intensified their investigation of possible Ku Klux Klan involvement.

There were three more cross burnings during the weekend, bringing the total to 10 since February.

FBI Special Agent Elmer Lindberg said on Sunday that the bureau is "actively investigating" all 10 cases for possible civil rights violations and activities by "white hate groups."

Lindberg, who said he had previous experience with KKK activities during seven years in Mississippi, said the investigation hasn't uncovered evidence of a systematic campaign.

"So far, they have been unrelated incidents," he said. "We're interested from a civil rights standpoint and we are investigating to see if there is any extremist or terrorist group behind these burnings."

The latest incidents included the first involving a white homeowner, Seymour J. Hoffberg.

A resident of Woodland Hills since 1960, Hoffberg, 56, said he had "no idea of why this occurred. All I am is a registered Democrat."

Walnut citizens renew effort to annex Diamond Bar schools

A second citizen attempt to have public schools in North Diamond Bar annexed by the Walnut Valley Unified School District will be explained at a general membership meeting of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association May 25 at 8 p.m. at the Diamond Bar Country Club.

Currently those schools, one junior high and three elementaries, are part of the Pomona Unified School District.

The dissatisfaction felt by Diamond Bar residents with having their schools tied to Pomona, compounded by the situation which requires having their high school age students bused to Ganesha High School in West Pomona, has long been on record.

An initial attempt to have the four schools — Lorbeer Junior High and Armstrong, Golden Springs and Diamond Point elementaries — annexed by the Walnut district was made in 1972.

The Diamond Bar residents were unsuccessful in that attempt. The Walnut school board voted not to approve the plan.

Increasing population in the Diamond Bar-Walnut area soon may justify construction of a new high school, and it is reported that Diamond Bar residents prefer not to have it built by the Pomona district.

Projections made by the Pomona district administration call for some 1,050 high school age students in Diamond Bar in five years.

Marty Spiegel, president of the Homeowners Association, said: "We as an association will be looking to the community that night (May 25) to see if residents are serious about devoting a great deal of money to bring the schools in North Diamond Bar into the Walnut School District.

"The future of the educational system of Diamond Bar is at stake."

Spiegel said two other items of major importance would be discussed at the meeting.

They are new information regarding the possible formation of a Municipal Advisory Council, and Proposition CC on the June 8 primary ballot which, if passed, approves the sale of the Diamond Bar Water Co. to the Walnut Water Co.

"These are tremendously important issues to all of us in Diamond Bar," said Spiegel.

"Our meeting is just a few days prior to the election that will decide the future quality and rates of water service in Diamond Bar. Residents interested in obtaining views on the water sale are urged to attend."

Spiegel described possible formation of the advisory council as "one of the hottest issues in Diamond Bar today." He said he would have "a very special statement to make regarding that possibility."

Diamond Bar residents not members of the association were invited by Spiegel to attend the meeting and join.

YAMAGATA, Japan (AP) — Nine miners were killed in a gas explosion today in a tunnel construction site near Yamagata, northeast of Tokyo, police reported.

Shotgun blast greets two calling at home

A man and woman were wounded early today when a Pomona man fired a shotgun blast through his front door after they mistook the residence at 1115 W. Third St. for the home of a friend, police reported.

The victims, Richard Rodgers, 45, Pomona, and Faith Williams, 23, Compton, were wounded in their lower legs by buckshot and were treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital before being transferred to County-USC Medical Center for further treatment.

Police who arrived first at the scene after the 1:40 a.m. shooting said they found the victims lying wounded in a field west of the Third Street residence.

They said the suspect, Ventura B. Flores, 61, refused to leave the house and barricaded himself inside. During the 20-minute standoff which followed, one shotgun blast was fired from inside the house at officers, but no one was hit, police said.

A relative, summoned by police, managed to persuade Flores to leave the house and he was arrested. He was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

The victims told police they went to the house believing it was the home of a friend. When they knocked several times on the door, they were shot with a blast which penetrated the front door.

Researchers tell Congress to end program

$4.4 billion crime fight called a failure

WASHINGTON (AP) — An independent study of the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration concludes that the agency has performed poorly in its $4.4-billion effort to combat crime and should be abolished.

"LEAA is unclear as to its mission, and what it has attempted it has done poorly," the study concluded. It urged Congress to shut down the LEAA and shift part of its funds to general revenue sharing.

The study was most critical of a $160-million LEAA "high impact anti-crime" program launched by the Nixon administration in 1972.

In announcing the administration's "high impact" project, former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew heralded the plan as an "across-the-board attack on street crimes and burglaries" in eight major cities.

But the report by the private Center for National Security Studies said the "high impact" project succeeded only in generating mountains of red tape and had no significant effect on crime statistics.

The report by the non-profit research group is to be issued later, but a draft copy was obtained by The Associated Press. Entitled Law and Disorder IV, the study is the fourth in a series of highly critical examinations of LEAA directed by Sarah C. Carey, a Washington attorney.

In urging Congress to dissolve the LEAA, the report said, "The federal government has greatly increased its expenditures to combat crime, but these expenditures have had no effect in reducing crime.

"Not only has the LEAA ... failed to halt the rising crime rates, but (LEAA) administrators haven't yet determined the steps or procedures that can be taken to achieve that goal," it said.

The study aimed most of its specific criticism at the "high impact" program, which had been an effort to fulfill the Nixon administration's promise to reduce burglaries and street crime in the eight target cities within two years.

The eight cities were Atlanta, Baltimore, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Newark, N.J., Portland, Ore., and St. Louis.

Of the "high impact" program, the study said, "Many of the cities had no idea how to effectively spend such a high level of funding in such a short period of time and complained bitterly of LEAA's lack of assistance."

The study said the program produced "multiple levels of red tape" and quoted a Denver official as complaining that there were "150 steps required to clear a project proposal."

And it said, "Atlanta officials laughed at the paperwork required to achieve a project modification, even when it only involved an alteration in office furniture." The study added that "other city officials asserted that the program involved more red tape than any other federal grant-in-aid program with which they had ever been involved."

The study said the Denver program was most successful, but that it suffered from a problem common to all eight cities: "Its administrators, the citizens and policymakers with whom they work, do not have a clear notion of how to prevent crime."

Tax plan aims at 100,000 wealthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 100,000 more well-to-do Americans would be forced to pay a minimum federal tax regardless of their deductions under a measure the Senate Finance Committee is considering.

About 55,000 of the nation's wealthiest persons now pay the minimum tax.

This week in the state legislature

Public utilities debate nuclear power bills

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Public utilities face a ticklish question in the California Legislature this week.

Do they back three bills on nuclear power plants as an alternative to Prop. 15 on the June 8 ballot, or try to defeat both the bills and the more stringent ballot initiative?

The answer may become apparent Tuesday night, when the bills begin two days of crucial hearings in the Senate Public Utilities, Transit and Energy Committee.

The Assembly-passed bills would ban construction of future nuclear plants unless methods were found, to the legislature's satisfaction, to store nuclear wastes and reprocess nuclear fuel.

Unlike the initiative, they would not affect current plants or those under construction; would not require legislative approval of plant safety systems; would not require accident liability limits to be lifted, and would require legislative approval by only a majority vote, not two-thirds.

Passage of the bills before June 8 could blunt the initiative campaign; their defeat would help it.

But utilities which have been the major foes of Prop. 15 haven't endorsed the bills, though Assemblyman Terry Goggin, D-San Bernardino, lead author of two of the bills, says recent amendments have softened their opposition.

"They still oppose the bills, but they could live with them," Goggin said last week.

One amendment allows the legislature to make a single finding on whether nuclear technology is safe, instead of reviewing each proposed plant.

But Goggin and other Assembly sponsors say they will resist the amendment the utilities want, which would rule out any legislative review of nuclear plants now on the drawing board.

The nuclear issue also surfaces Friday in the Assembly Resources, Land Use and Energy Committee, which will hear Federal Energy Administration head Frank Zarb describe an FEA-commissioned University of Texas study on Prop. 15.

The study has been criticized in advance by backers of the initiative, who say the federal government is pro-nuclear power and is trying to defeat Prop. 15.

Also before the legislature this week is a possible Senate vote on a bill by Sen. Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose, which would put the new $1.3 million governor's mansion up for sale. Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. refuses to live in the mansion.

A confrontation between Brown and pro-freeway legislators apparently has been headed off with the announcement by Sen. Randolph Collier, D Yreka, that he will not oppose the governor's nomination of Adriana Gianturco as state transportation director.

The nomination is before the Senate Rules Committee Wednesday.

Collier, chairman of the Senate Transportation Committee and legislative architect of many freeways, had announced earlier that he would fight the nomination because Miss Gianturco was anti-freeway.

But he said last week she had assured him she wasn't absolutely opposed to freeways, so "his attitude is give her a chance," a Collier spokesman said.

If approved, the nomination goes to the Senate floor.

Another Brown administration proposal may face more legislative resistance.

That plan, to merge the state's department of Alcoholic Beverage Control with the Office of Alcohol Program Management, will be considered Tuesday by the Senate Governmental Organization Committee.

Brown has said he wants to combine the state's liquor licensing and alcoholism offices "to give greater visibility to the problem of alcoholism."

Critics of the proposal include Assembly Speaker Leo McCarthy, D-San Francisco, who said last week, "I don't think it's sensible management."

S.F.'s Board of Supervisors' vote unsettled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Crafts workers who picketed for 38 days while San Francisco slowly decayed worked to put the city back together today amid reports of an angry split on the Board of Supervisors.

The discord apparently stems from the board's decision to remove two antilabor measures from the June 8 ballot as part of the dramatic Saturday morning settlement.

A majority of the board reportedly agreed to remove the issues, with opposition coming from board president Quentin Kopp and Supervisor John Barbagelata.

Kopp and Barbagelata said removing the measures may be illegal. Board members said they acted partly in fear that if the strike was not settled, the city faced a serious water shortage and the collapse of other services.

The ballot measures would have authorized the dismissal of striking city employes and set salaries for two years.

"The public was suffering a great deal of inconvenience," said Supervisor Terry Francois. "We simply did not give up very much. The two measures can be restored to the ballot any time."

Kopp and Barbagelata say the board has left itself open to possible legal problems.

The city charter prohibits removing signatures from ballot initiatives after they have been filed and this may apply to supervisors who have voted to put the measure on the ballot.

Secondly, absentee ballots for the June 8 primary may be used beginning today. Both men say that even if legal, the board's action came too late.

Meanwhile, two thousand acres of shaggy grass need mowing. More than 200 water leaks must be repaired. Ten thousand shriveling trees need watering. And 50 buses vandalized during the walkout need repair.

But while the city lost its glow for many visitors, the treasury swelled with unpaid salaries. Nearly $8 million was saved during the strike, officials estimate.

The most visible sign that the city's longest municipal strike had ended was the return of clattering cable cars and wheezing buses.

Drivers for the Municipal Railway had honored picket lines set up March 31, forcing 250,000 daily riders to find other ways around the hilly City by the Bay.

The end of the strike also signaled an end to the luxury of free parking at metered spaces and in bus stops.

Piles of garbage melted away as private firms which collect the city's rubbish began picking up weeks of accumulated trash. Many had refused to cross picket lines.

Water department officials said workers would begin today to repair the city's aging water system.

Study shows Port of L.A. in trouble

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Port of Los Angeles is in danger of becoming obsolete, and needs a $350 million, 15-year revamping, a study has concluded.

The $250,000 master plan for the port found that about half of the world's container fleet and one-third of existing bulk carriers can't enter Los Angeles Harbor because the 35-footdeep main channel and basin are too shallow. More than 70 per cent of the container traffic and two-thirds of all bulk tonnage are handled by these ships, the study said.

The study warned that the harbor "is rapidly becoming an obsolete facility," and recommended the harbor be dredged to provide deeper water, and an additional 1,000 acres be added to the harbor area.

The extra land could come from a fill project, using dirt dredged from the harbor, or could mean the elimination of other non-harbor uses.

Without the massive redevelopment project, the study warned, the Port of Los Angeles could continue to lose to its neighboring harbor at Long Beach, which has increased its share of Pacific Coast tonnage from 8 per cent in 1960 to 14 per cent in 1974. Los Angeles dropped from 19 to 13 per cent during the same time period.

Van de Kamp boasts big financial lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Incumbent Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp raised more than $2,000 a day in campaign contributions from Jan. 1 through April 26 to amass more than six times the total funds raised by his closest rival, campaign records show.

Van de Kamp, who is seeking election to the post he was appointed to last October by the Board of Supervisors, raised $239,297.

In contrast, records show that attorney Vincent T. Bugliosi, the prosecutor in the Manson murder trial, raised $37,911 in the same period, including a $5,000 contribution may have to be returned.

The contribution came from Mardi Rustam, a film producer and processor, who has been charged with two misdemeanor counts in connection with the sale or distribution of two allegedly obscene films. Bugliosi said he did not know of the case and would return the money if he determined there would be a conflict of interest if he is elected.

The other four candidates in the June 8 nonpartisan primary election for district attorney are Attorney George V. Denny, who raised $22,465; Deputy Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Howard, $3,670; Deputy Dist. Atty. Milder A. Friedenbert, $735, and Dep. Public Defender Christopher W. Smith, $500.

Under state law, all candidates are required to list the names of all contributors of $50 or more with the amount they contributed.

This is the way the delegate count shaped up after weekend conventions and caucuses. In the Democratic race, Jimmy Carter led with 569 delegates. Ronald Reagan was ahead in the GOP race with 396.

Church busy campaigning in Nebraska for an upset

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Idaho Sen. Frank Church took his Democratic presidential campaign to churches and taverns over the weekend, working for an upset victory over Jimmy Carter in his first primary here Tuesday.

Church said that with united support he could score "a stunning upset" that could be the "springboard" to later campaign victories.

Nebraska's Democratic presidential ballot carries the names of 11 candidates including Sens. Hubert Humphrey and Edward Kennedy, who unsuccessfully tried to have their names removed.

President Ford faces Ronald Reagan in their race for the Republican nomination in Nebraska and in West Virginia the same day. Democrats vote in both states and in Connecticut.

After weekend GOP caucuses and conventions in five states, Ronald Reagan pushed past the one-third mark in his drive for the 1,130 national convention delegates that would give him the Republican presidential nomination.

The former California governor had 396 delegates to 309 for President Ford. In addition, 347 uncommitteed GOP delegates had been selected.

On the Democratic side, Carter picked up additional delegates in Maine and Wyoming to reach a total of 569. Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson, who announced an end to his active campaigning a week ago, had 199 delegates and Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall 187.5 delegate votes.

In addition, 281.5 uncommitted Democratic delegates have been elected.

President Ford spent the weekend campaigning in Nebraska and Missouri, seeking to regain the lead in Republican delegate strength. He was back at the White House on Sunday. Aides said he would campaign in his home state, Michigan, on Wednesday, and there were reports he would work there Saturday.

Reagan spent Sunday in Los Angeles.

Church has concentrated on Nebraska since entering the Democratic race several weeks ago, and he hurried from town to town over the weekend in an effort to round up support.

The Idaho senator was a late starter because he was busy as chairman of the Senate intelligence committee.

Carter has predicted a victory in Nebraska, though he has said he is behind in Maryland where he faces still another newcomer, California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

The voting in Connecticut will generally indicate how the state's delegation will stand. The results will lead to the appointent of delegates to district conventions who will, in turn, chose the national convention delegation.

Saves diabetics, but...

Insulin may cause blindness in users

RESTON, Va. (AP) — Researchers say the insulin that has saved millions of diabetics from death may actually cause one of the disease's most ravaging aftereffects — blindness.

The first indications that insulin may be a two-edged sword came in results of studies with rhesus monkeys. Test results were announced here Sunday by researchers at the University of California at Los Angeles.

"The results of our study raise important questions concerning whether insulin, apart from its ability to prolong life, may contribute to the development of diabetic proliferative ocular (eye) disease," said Dr. Alan L. Shabo.

Proliferative diabetic retinopathy is a disease seen in various stages in the majority of diabetics. As it progresses, the disease can result in bleeding inside the eyeball, detached retinas and other complications that can severely hamper vision.

Shabo and other eye specialists told a science writers' seminar sponsored by Research to Prevent Blindness Inc. (RPB) that insulin has done diabetics much more good than possible harm.

If further research definitely links insulin and eye disease, that would give clues to the process bringing on the ailment and could lead to discovery of ways to reverse or block the disease, they said.

Diabetes is a disease in which the body's ability to burn up sugar is hampered because the pancreas does not produce enough insulin. The condition is controlled through substituting insulin from animals, mainly cows, or through weight control and diet.

RPB, a foundation supporting eye research, says statistics show some 10 million Americans have diabetes — half of these cases undiagnosed.

Among persons with diabetes for more than 11 years, figures show the eye disease present in various stages in 64 per cent. For those with diabetes for 15 to 20 years, more than 90 per cent have eye disease.

Shabo said monkeys were made allergic to insulin so their bodies' defense systems reacted to it. When insulin was injected into the eyeballs of the "sensitized" monkeys, he said, they developed eye disease "with many features similar to those of diabetic patients."

Previous studies show most diabetics develop antibodies against animal insulin within a few weeks of starting therapy, he said, indicating diabetics become "sensitized" to the substance.

Diabetic eye disease in initial stages is characterized by leaky blood vessels in the eye. Shabo said this could allow leakage of insulin into the eye, which theoretically could be attacked by the eye's defense system to cause or aggravate the disease.

In 1930, when animal insulin was not in wide use, new cases of diabetes blindness were less than 1 per cent of the national total, he said. But it now accounts for more than 15 per cent of new cases.

Life expectancy for diabetics improved dramatically with insulin therapy, Shabo said, and "it is often asserted that this increased longevity accounts for the increasing incidence" of the eye disease.

The new findings cast doubt on this explanation, he said.

City manager a 'token male'

DEL MAR (AP) — "I don't mind being the only token male in the city offices," says City Manager J. Wayne Dernetz.

Today women head the City Council, the Design Review Board, the Planning Department and the city clerk's office.

The mayor, Nancy Hoover, a suntanned blonde, is one of the dozen leading city officials. In the last year, they've recalled a councilman on economic issues, authorized new tennis courts and made ordinance changes.

Women make up 47.7 per cent of the 4,734 people living in this affluent seaside community north of San Diego.

HER HERO

Red, an Irish setter adopted recently by the Bruce Morris family, is credited with saving the life of the couple's 2-year-old daughter Margaret by pulling her from a burning car in Harvester, Mo., while her parents were shopping.

Adopted dog saves life of 2-year-old

BRIDGETON, Mo. (AP) — Two-year-old Margaret Morris owes her life to a decision by her family to take in a dirty, hungry dog they found roaming in their neighborhood.

Red, an Irish setter adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce R. Morris of Harvester, Mo., three weeks ago, pulled the panicked girl by her coat collar from their parked car minutes before it was gutted by flames.

"All I can say is thank God we got the dog, I wouldn't have been able to get to the car in time," said Morris, who witnessed the incident from a car dealer's showroom where he and his wife were shopping for a new car.

Red was adopted by the Morrises after they found him running loose. The dog's owner was located but he agreed to let the family keep the animal.

"My wife, Betsy, and Margaret had really become attached to the dog," Morris said Sunday.

Saturday afternoon, the couple left Margaret asleep in the car with Red standing guard. The car's front windows were rolled down about three-quarters of the way, Morris said.

Morris said he frequently looked out to check on the girl, but after 15 minutes had passed, a salesman noticed smoke pouring from the car windows.

"I heard him yell, 'My God, there's a girl in that car,'" Morris recalled.

Morris said that as he was running across the showroom toward a door, he saw the smoke and then saw Red jump out a front window.

Once outside the car, the 75-pound dog turned back for Margaret, who by that time had been awakened by the smoke and was standing up in the back seat, swinging her arms in fright.

"As soon as Red hit the ground, he jumped up, put his paws on the side of the car and reached his head through the smoke coming out the window," Morris said.

Red grabbed Margaret's coat collar with his teeth and dragged the little girl out the window, then pushed her away from the car.

A Bridgeton patrolman said flames from the car were shooting 20 to 25 feet into the air by the time he arrived. The fire, apparently caused by faulty wiring, gutted the interior.

Margaret was taken to a hospital where she was treated for minor burns and released. Red suffered singed hair and a slight cut on his nose.

"I gave Red a steak when we got home after the fire," Morris said. "He may get steak every night after this."

Brown says he can win nomination

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. told an enthusiastic crowd of supporters Sunday he can win the Democratic presidential nomination despite his late start in the campaign.

Brown said when he started campaigning in Maryland two weeks ago he was told that he was in fifth place and Jimmy Carter was leading the pack.

"Just two days ago, when Jimmy Carter's caravan came in (to Maryland), he said now I was the frontrunner," Brown said.

"I don't know whether he's right or not, but if he is and I can become the frontrunner in two weeks in Maryland, then I can become the frontrunner in this country in two months.

"Some people are saying the nominations are all over," Brown added. "Well, I think we're big enough, mature enough, and strong enough to have a very vigorous debate and discussion between now and July.

"If Maryland goes right and if I do well in Nevada and California and other states that I'm going into, we've got a chance."

Brown said he had a good feeling about the campaign.

"It's the kind of thing that the experts and pundits say, 'how can you make it?'" Brown said. "I remember them telling me that when I ran for governor."

Brown stopped in Las Vegas en route from New York to California to address a Democratic party fund-raising event.

In New York, Brown appeared on the CBS "Face the Nation" program, and accused Carter of "not leveling with the American people" in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Carter, former Georgia governor, is his party's frontrunner.

"Where' the real Jimmy Carter? What's behind the smile?," Brown asked on the program.

The California governor predicted tough times ahead for the American people, adding: "I don't think Carter is leveling with the American people about the difficulties . . . it's not going to be easy . . .

"With Carter, the sense I get is it's all smiles, be nice and easy . . . but it's going to be tough," Brown said.

Spotlight on area crime

Two men attacked with irons, pipes

Two men were attacked by a group of youths armed with tire irons and pipes in the parking lot of Zeke's Market, 4086 Philadelphia St., Chino, Saturday evening, according to West End sheriff's deputies.

Spencer James Bradley, 20, of Ontario, suffered a head laceration and Leslie Ghan, 19, of Chino, bruises as a result of the attack. Both men did not require hospitalization, deputies reported.

Deputies arrested Santiago Jimmy Gonzales, 19, of 11923 Fardon Ave., Chino, for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon in the incident.

Deputies said the motive for the attack was not known. Deputies are continuing the investigation.

Couple booked

An Ontario couple were booked in the West End Jail this morning in connection with a burglary at the Mayfair Market at 9800 Central Ave. in Montclair early Sundy morning and for investigation of grand theft auto.

Randolph William Gallup, 32, and his wife Cindy Gallup, 25, of 2426 Euclid Ave., were arrested by police after the store manager reported the couple had entered the store several times and made off with a number of foodstuffs without paying. Police in making the arrest discovered that the car the couple was driving was reportedly stolen out of West Covina.

The couple were in West End Jail this morning in lieu of $5,000 bail each.

Car hot-wired

A car belonging to the Republic of China consul in Los Angeles was found hot-wired and abandoned in CLAREMONT late Saturday night.

The vehicle, a 1974 Ford Mustang bearing diplomatic license plates, was found in an alley at the rear of 750 W. San Jose Ave. It was impounded by Claremont police.

The car, registered to Lin Ching Hsiu of the Chinese Information Bureau on Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles, was stolen in Los Angeles last Monday.

Shot in leg

A 29-year-old UPLAND man told police he was shot in the leg Saturday evening as he was walking in the 800 block of Campus Avenue.

Sista Armenta of 664 N. Sixth Ave. was treated and released from San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland. Armenta told officers that two men in a white car drove by him about 5:30 p.m. and fired a shot. He was unable to give officers a better description.

Army meat buying fraud investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army meat inspectors will be the lead-off witnesses as a Senate panel begins public hearings into an alleged multi-million dollar military meat fraud.

Four present or former military food inspectors were to testify today before a Senate Government Operations subcommittee.

Subcommittee chairman Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., has alleged that Army inspectors received "thousands of dollars" in bribes and other favors, including the services of prostitutes, for approving inferior meat destined for military consumption.

The substandard meat — usually cheap, tough or fatty cuts — was being sold to the Pentagon by some commercial meatpacking houses for as much as $4-a-pound, Chiles said. He called it "a series of conspiracies to defraud the government of millions of dollars."

Today's scheduled witnesses include a present military inspector, Nadja Hoyer-Booth, and a former one, Charles Reidinger, both of whom inspected beef at the G&G Packing Co. of Boston, one of two prime targets of the probe.

Both witnesses have been named in a subcommittee memorandum as having allegedly received cash or other gratuities from Ferdinand Romano, former general manager of the G&G plant.

Also scheduled to appear is an official of Blue Ribbon Frozen Foods of Hamden, Conn., the other firm the subcommittee is investigating.

Neither firm is now processing meat for the military. But, up until 1975, they had been together supplying the Pentagon with 20 per cent of the 100 million pounds of beef it buys each year — at a cost of $250 million — for military bases around the world.

Dies in disgrace

Arlington burial set for former governor

CHICAGO (AP) — Former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who lived his final years in disgrace because of a race track scandal, will be buried with honor at Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D.C.

Kerner's death from lung cancer at a hospital early Sunday brought to an end a two-year battle with cancer and a fight to clear his name after his conviction three years ago.

The 67-year-old Kerner, a retired U.S. Army lieutenant colonel, resigned as governor in 1968 to accept appointment to the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

It was while serving on the federal court that he was indicted for income tax invasion, conspiracy and mail fraud in connection with a race track stock scandal that occured during his second term as governor.

He was convicted in February 1973, the first sitting judge of a U.S. Court of Appeals to be indicted and convicted of a criminal charge.

Kerner gained national recognition in 1967 when President Lyndon Johnson appointed him chairman of the President's Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence.

The Kerner Report warned that the country was "moving toward two societies, one black, one white — separate and unequal."

Kerner, governor of Illinois from 1961 to 1968, entered the Illinois Masonic Medical Center on April 12 for cancer treatments, one year after surgeons removed one third of his right lung. Since then, Kerner had extensive cobalt and chemotherapy treatments.

He and a longtime associate, Theodore J. Isaacs, were accused of paying $50,000 for race track stock worth $300,000. Federal prosecutors said the stock was made available to Kerner and Issacs to insure that certain racing groups received favorable race meeting dates. The meeting dates were selected by members of Illinois racing boards who were appointed by Kerner.

Kerner also was accused of improperly filing income tax returns in 1966 and 1967 and concealing ownership of the race track stock through complicated financial transactions.

He was sentenced to three years at a federal correction center in Lexington, Ky., but was paroled because of ill health in March 1975.

Throughout the trial and his imprisonment, Kerner proclaimed his innocence and vowed to clear his name.

"This battle is even more important than life itself because it involves my reputation and honor, which are dearer than life itself," he once said.

Town hit by hail

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms developed over western and central Oklahoma during the night, extending into western and central Kansas and into central and eastern Texas through northern Louisiana.

The town of Freedom, in southwest Oklahoma, reported hail the size of marbles. Severe thunderstorm warnings were issued for all or parts of six western Oklahoma counties.

Elsewhere, there was little rainfall. A stationary front, extending across Florida from the Atlantic into the Gulf, triggered a few showers in Florida.

Light fog settled over southcentral and southeast Texas overnight. Some fog also hugged the coasts of northern California and the Pacific Northwest.

A cold front reaching from the Canadian province of Ontario across the northern Plains and Rockies brought only some cooler weather.

Much of the country had cloudy or mostly cloudy skies. The largest area of nearly clear skies extended from the Ohio valley and the lower Great Lakes through the midAtlantic Coast states. Another area reached from western Texas through Arizona.

Warm temperatures, from the mid 50s to the lower 60s, were spread across the upper Great Lakes and the northern Plains. The Pacific Northwest was also warm, with some readings in the 60s.

Temperatures over the nation at 3 a.m. (EDT) ranged from 78 at Needles, Calif., to 33 at Bradford, Pa.

The national weather forecast for today called for clouds covering the lower half of the Mississippi valley and East Texas. Showers and occasional thundershowers were due over the east portion of the lower Mississippi valley into West Tennessee. Temperatures were expected to be warm for South Florida and in the Northwest.

Turkish premier warns

Rejection of defense agreement could mean end of cooperation

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Rejection by the U.S. Congress of the new billion-dollar defense agreement between Turkey and the United States could mean the end of Turkish military cooperation with the United States, Premier Suleyman Demirel warned Sunday.

The Ford administration agreed in March to give Turkey $1 billion in military aid over four years in return for the reopening of 26 U.S. bases in Turkey. The bases were closed after Congress halted arms shipments to Turkey in retaliation for Turkey's use of American weapons in the invasion of Cyprus in July 1974.

A similar $700-million agreement is pending with Greece, but congressional approval for both appears unlikely. No date has been set for Congress to vote on the agreements.

"If the agreement is rejected ... it should be better not to have it," Demirel said in an interview with The Associated Press. "It would be very difficult to have another agreement along these lines or along other lines. The people will say, 'What is the use of having agreements with the U.S. government because we don't know whether they will be rejected or accepted by the Congress. ... Rejection will destroy the credibility of the United States."

U.S. military planners consider Turkey a key element in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's line of defense against the Soviet Union because of its location on Russia's southern border, its army of 500,000 men and the location in Turkey of 26 American military electronic surveillance stations which monitor Soviet activities.

Since Congress imposed the arms embargo 14 months ago, Demirel has turned to the Soviet bloc for increased trade and economic cooperation but has stopped short of accepting Soviet weapons. The premier disclosed in the interview that the Soviet government has pledged a billion dollars on easy credit terms to pay for development and industrial projects.

Demirel gave no indication of plans to withdraw the Turkish troops still on Cyprus. "There is peace on the island now which never happened before," he declared.

He said the complexity of the Cyprus question and of the rival Greek and Turkish claims to offshore oil rights in the Aegean "prevents a quick solution" between Greece and Turkey.

"This is a continuous process," he said. "My talk with Premier (Constantine) Caramanlis (of Greece) in Brussels last May was useful."

Most relied upon, yet least reliable

U.S. oil, gas reserve estimates a joke?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Of all the statistics used to prop up national energy policies, estimates of oil and gas reserves are among the most relied upon — and the least reliable.

Fuel price controls are attacked, homes and factories are denied gas service and untouched offshore areas are scheduled for drilling: all, it is said, because oil and gas reserves are falling.

On March 30, two industry groups reported that reserves dropped 4 or 5 per cent last year and said this showed the need for government policies more favorable to the oil companies.

The American Gas Association said it conclusively demonstrates the need to end natural gas regulation.

But conclusive is the wrong word for reserve estimates and the reasons make a long list:

—Oil and gas in the ground can't be measured directly, it can only be guessed at on the basis of test wells and rock samples.

—Scattered test wells and rock samples may or may not represent accurately the hundreds of thousands of cubic miles in an entire petroleum formation.

—Experts often differ in guessing what the samples really mean.

—The data can be used in a wide variety of formulas for estimating reserves, and each formula gives a different answer.

—Estimates using different data and formulas can't be used to check each other.

—Oil companies often keep their samples and data secret; then, their own reserve estimates can't be checked by outsiders.

—Reserves mean oil and gas that can actually be produced; but that means guessing the influence of present and future costs, prices and technical advances.

—Company estimates may be optimistic or pessimistic depending on whom they are meant to impress, and why.

—Regional and national reserve estimates are compiled from thousands of company reports, introducing chances for error in the paperwork.

—And large-scale estimates are patched together by committees, whose final consensus estimate may not be anybody's personal best guess.

Thus, for any estimate of oil or gas reserves, there is always another that is higher or lower.

And the estimate-gap is usually flooded by public and Congressional suspicions that somebody is twisting an estimate for his own advantage.

The American Petroleum Institute and American Gas Association, traditional sources of reserve figures, say their series is too old and complex — 30 years and some 300 estimators each year — to be falsified in some vast secret conspiracy.

But the API-AGA estimators depend on information from individual companies, who may not give everybody the same numbers: what they turn in may be the estimates most likely to bolster stockholder confidence, reassure federal and state regulators, minimize taxation, or hide their cards from competitors on the API-AGA estimating teams.

Natural-gas industry sources admit some companies probably issued optimistic reserve estimates in the 1950's when they were building their markets, to give regulators and customers confidence in long-term contracts.

If so, today's declining reserve estimates could reflect the intrusion of reality into old dreams, rather than the depressing effect of price controls so loudly blamed by the industry.

An Associated Press investigation last November showed that the largest single factor pushing down gas reserves since 1968 was simply the revision of earlier reserve estimates, because some gas fields just were not performing as well as the estimators had predicted.

Last October the Federal Energy Administration performed an independent estimate of oil and gas reserves.

It bypassed the API-AGA teams, but still had to collect basic estimates from the petroleum companies, sending out some 22,000 questionnaires.

The FEA estimate of oil reserves turned out 11 percent higher than the API's, and its gas estimate was 3 percent higher than the AGA's; pretty close agreement.

But the FEA effort also showed how easy it is for reserve estimates to go wrong.

The questionnaires came back so poorly filled in that FEA had to make 14,000 phone calls to straighten them out.

It found the producers using at least three different methods which "usually result in different estimates."

Checking some large oil fields in detail, FEA and its contractors found instances of:

—"Somewhat extreme interpretations of production decline curves ... high operating costs, high economic limits of production ...," which would mean pessimistic reserve estimates.

— Complicated geological fields whose operators would not reveal secret data to the FEA representatives.

—An estimate based on "very old published information," although "the operator quite possibly has more recent and more reliable data and interpretations."

—Estimates which were "poorly documented ... the logic and assumptions behind the estimates ... are of course unknown."

The operator of one gas field gave the FEA different production figures from those given to the AGA; the result was to give the FEA the impression of lower gas reserves in that field.

For Alaska's Prudhoe Bay, the biggest new gas find of recent years, the FEA estimated reserves 10.6 percent higher than the AGA figure, and explained that the AGA estimate "has not been revised since it was initially recorded on December 31, 1970. The FEA estimate is based upon considerably more recent data."

Where it could, the FEA compared its oil reserve estimates with those prepared by certain state agencies.

The FEA estimate for New Mexico oil was only 8 percent higher than the state's own estimate; its Illinois estimate was only one percent lower than the state's estimate; FEA was 6 percent lower than Michigan's state estimate.

But Florida's oil reserve estimate was 18 percent higher than the FEA's version, Montana's was 55 percent higher. Other states, unidentified to protect company data, were 100 percent higher. Arkansas was 200 percent higher than the FEA's state estimate.

And in all these estimates — API-AGA, FEA, state — there is a wild card in the deck, for changes in costs and prices will increase or decrease reserves as operators decide whether or not it is financially worthwhile to keep on pumping or to shut down a well. This is because only oil and gas which is economically feasible to produce is listed in reserves.

Since 1973, average U.S. oil prices have nearly tripled and new natural gas prices have more than doubled, but those price hikes have not yet shown up as increased reserves.

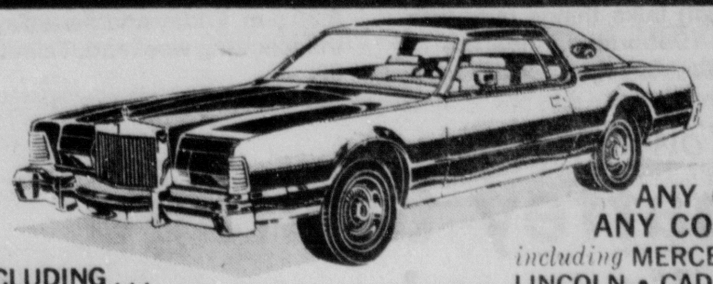

Industry economic consultant Richard Gonzalez said the effect of higher prices probably would not work its way into the estimates completely for perhaps 5 to 10 years.

Political Adv.

Does Disagreement Justify A Recall?

Is The Tail Wagging The Dog?

Disagreement with one special interest group on arbitrary issues does not justify a recall election. It is sheer nonsense to replace three outstanding school board members like Beverly Shacklett, Bill Anderson and Ernie Taylor who during a combined total of 14 commendable years on the board have, among many other things, reinstated at Claremont High School the traditional schedule as an alternative to the module schedule, have made sound financial decisions, have made changes in staff at various district schools to restore active leadership in discipline and basic program and have established a strong vocational program. These three have proved continuously they sincerely care about quality education. Fortunately, they have complemented this concern with efficient utilization of tax dollars, plus building up large reserves to carry the district through the predicted "lean" years to come. School boards cannot function on a popularity contest basis. Any board has a responsibility to the entire school district and cannot always accommodate individual interests. Its judgment should not be abrogated by a hastily proposed "slate" whose apparent purpose is to reverse selected decisions to please a minority at the expense of the majority. An unnecessary and costly election is scheduled May 18 for Claremont because 22% of the district's qualified voters signed recall petitions. Thus, 75% of the school district's voters will be forced to help pay for this election. Vote intelligently and responsibly—do not allow a minority group to control the Claremont school district.

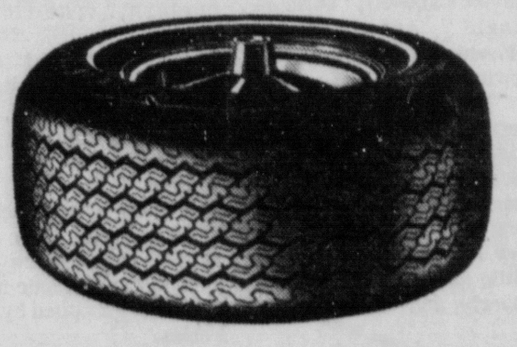

There was nothing sudden or political about the idea that an elementary school needed to be closed. A citizens group of 300 parents, at a special school board workshop in February 1971, proposed that Sycamore school be closed for elementary students and be used by San Antonio students (Claremont Courier, Feb. 13, 1971). This proposal was made after the superintendent had stated the school district had been faced with cutting $1,250,000 from budgets and enrollment was decreasing.

In 1972 and '73 the superintendent and board often discussed the necessity of closing a school because of declining enrollment, and finally in 1974 the superintendent recommended that a task force of citizens from all areas of the district make a study that would, in essence, decide which school be closed. This task force rated all facilities and by a large majority placed Sycamore at the bottom. Then after many open meetings and special sessions the board voted to convert Sycamore's use. This was hardly unresponsive action without open discussion.

CHAFFEY'S TOWN — The Stage Manager (Carl Johnson) left, philosophizes, while editor Webb (Jim West) talks things over with his wife (Deborah Lombardo) in the Chaffey College production of "Our Town." Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize play will be presented in the Little Theater at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and the following weekend. Tickets are $2.

'Our Town'

Chaffey to stage Pulitzer drama

Chaffey College will present Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize play, "Our Town," in the Little Theater at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and the following weekend. Catherine Johnson directs.

The play, pure Americana in New England terms, is about a New Hampshire town called Grover's Corners (population, 2,642) at the turn of the 20th Century.

Wilder's narrator, the Stage Manager, reports that a copy of the play is to be put in a cornerstone for a new bank in Grover's Corners. The reason, he explains, is so "people a thousand years from now'll know a few simple facts about us . . . in our growing up and in our marrying and in our living and in our dying."

Wilder's boy and girl-next-door consummate the State Manager's theme. George Gibbs and Emily Webb grow up together and marry. Their marriage, a loving one, ends after nine years with Emily's death.

Carl Johnson will appear as the Stage Manager; Richard Arias and Denise Mellinger as George and Emily.

In the roles of the seniors will will be Mark Foley and Dawn Smith as Dr. and Mrs. Frank Gibbs; Jim West and Deborah Lombardo as newspaper editor and Mrs. Charles Webb.

Others in the cast will be Rich Rojas, Esteban Santos, Peter Alvarez, Bill McGrath, Donna Chulos, Doug Reza, Scott Hearl, Ken Maldonado, Larry Downey, Sandra Quisenberry, Gay Welch and Bob Worley.

Admission will be $2 for the general public and $1.50 for students, Group rates are available. Further information may be obtained by calling the box office at 987-1745 or the college at 822-4484 and 735-0242, extension 322.

Wilder on television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thornton Wilder's "The Eighth Day" is the latest novel to be announced for the television treatment, following the success of "Rich Man, Poor Man."

NBC has added the 1967 book to its "Best Sellers" series, which will appear on Thursday night next season. Universal Studios will produce the films. Already announced: "Captains and the Kings" by Taylor Caldwell; "Once an Eagle," Anton Myrer; "Evening in Byzantium," Irwin Shaw.

"The Eighth Day" concerns a turn-of-the-century saga of John Ashley, who escapes while on his way to prison for a murder he didn't commit. He finds a new life in South America while his family endures poverty and ostracism.

Dance program slated

The Scripps College Dance Theater will present a program in Garrison Theater, Claremont, at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Tickets are $2 general, $1 for students.

The 26-member dance group, directed by Linda Levy, assistant dance professor, will demonstrate its versatility by performing to music ranging from Brahms to electronic jazz.

Miss Levy choreographed the featured work, "Variations," divided into six sections with a solo, duet, trio, quartet, quintet and sextet using 11 dancers. The black and white clad dancers will do the classic modern work to a Brahms score.

Lori Boyd will do a solo number which she choreographed using a Franck violin solo as the music.

Debi Michel's "The Chase" will feature six dancers who feversihly chase one another, leaping over trash cans and other obstacles in the fast-moving number performed to Tim Weisberg's music. This is the first dance Miss Michel has choreographed.

Another new choreographer, Rita Jepsen, will present a modern work entitled "Icarus," performed to music of the same name. Five dancers, wearing body-painted leotards, will perform the modern, free-flowing dance.

Guest student choreographer Kathy Hassinger has a playful, jazz number using four dancers in the concert.

Sanda Fettes and Sheri Henderson will appear in "Schizophrenia," a cool, avant-garde dance performed to electronic music and choregoraphed by Miss Fettes.

CHEKHOV CHARMER — Vershinin (Lou Gossett) exerts his charms on Marsha (Barra Grant) in a scene from Chekhov's "Three Sisters," playing through June 26 at the Forum of the Los Angeles Music Center. The classic drama plays in repertory with "And Where She Stops Nobody Knows," "Ashes" and "Cross Country."

Also on the program will be two dances previously seen in Claremont as senior thesis projects. Liz Milwe will excerpt "Always" from her "Climb"-ing into Midnight" number and Dianne Davis will again present her lyrical blues piece.

Expo art show accepts entries

Artists from eight Southern California counties will compete for a total of $3,500 in cash prizes in the annual art show of the Southern California Exposition at Del Mar June 22-July 5.

Entries will be accepted on the Del Mar Fairgrounds on May 27 and 29 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on May 28 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. from artists in San Diego, Imperial, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino, Ventura and Santa Barbara counties.

Prizes include three new awards for best expression of the fair's Bicentennial theme.

Divisions of the show are painting, sculpture, graphics and crafts-ceramics. Awards ranging from $500 to $200 are made for the best work in each of these categories. First through third places are then awarded for 13 classes within the divisions.

Work chosen by the art jury for showing during the Expo may be sold for a 25 per cent commission if the artist so desires.

The jury, charged with selecting works to be hung in the Turf Club Gallery where the 600,000 expected Expo visitors may see them, will convene on May 31 and June 1.

It will be made up of Stanislaus Sowinski, Escondido; William Bowne, San Diego; and Ted Wade, Vista, for paintings and graphics and Kay Whitcomb, La Jolla; Gene Glome, Del Mar; and John Novy, San Diego, for sculpture and crafts.

Details on entry fees, preparation of entries, premiums, delivery of work and other information are contained in a brochure available through the Southern California Exposition entry office.

On this date —

In 1497, the Italian navigator Amerigo Vespucci sailed on his first voyage to the New World.

In 1865, during the Civil War, Union forces captured Confederate President Jefferson Davis at Irwinville, Ga.

In 1869, a golden spike was driven at Ogden, Utah, marking the completion of the first transcontinental railroad.

In 1871, the Treaty of Frankfurt ended the Franco-Prussian War, with Alsace-Lorraine ceded to Germany

In 1940, during World War II, German forces invaded Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

In 1970, the head of the United Auto Workers Union, Walter Reuther, and five others were killed in a plane crash in Michigan.

Thought for today: humility is the solid foundation of all the virtues — Confucius, Chinese philosopher, 551-479 B-C.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, British Vice Admiral Lord Howe, who was preparing to leave Spithead, England, for America, warned the Admiralty that it would be impossible to carry out his orders to blockade the Colonies without the capture of some of the major ports.

Calm approach draws praise

Scranton proves hit in U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Although only a few weeks on the job, U.S. Ambassador William Warren Scranton is winning rave reviews from his U.N. colleagues.

His soft-spoken, evenhanded approach is credited with stilling the U.S.-Third World tempest that blew up after his predecessor, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, adopted a sharp answer-back strategy against those who criticized the United States.

"People tell me there's a great deal more effort going on to try to temporize statements, resolutions, etc., than has previously been the case," Scranton said in a recent interview with The Associated Press.

Does he believe his low-key style has contributed to this change?

"The answer to that would automatically be put down as egotistical, but I'll try," Scranton said. "The sensitivities I get from others is yes, that this has helped.

"They know that I'm sincerely interested in listening and wanting to know what their thinking is, and likewise that I'm very straightforward in putting forth what the U.S. stands for and why."

There is little question that a large measure of Scranton's attraction stems from the fact that Moynihan rankled both allies and opponents alike with his well-publicized sallies against Third World and Communist targets. Scranton goes to great lengths to stress that he is not critical of his predecessor.

"Moynihan made a vigorous impression here," Scranton said. "I've said many times there was a lot of excellent things he did — most outstandingly the reinvocation of the pride of American people in themselves, which I thought was a tremendous boost."

He emphatically added that "if the U.S. is strongly attacked here, I will do likewise."

But in the busy delegates' lounge of the U.N. skyscraper on the East River, Scranton's quiet approach is drawing praise.

The British ambassador, Ivor Richard, who publicly cast Moynihan as a hip-shooting Wyatt Earp, said of Scranton: "He seems to have made a splendid start at the U.N. I have great respect for him and considerable admiration for the way he has taken to his job. I'm sure my views are shared by many of my colleagues at the U.N."

Such words are strong stuff among diplomats, who normally avoid any public evaluation of one another. Privately, the raves are less restrained.

"The change of atmosphere is remarkable," said a West European envoy. "He's done an enormous amount in the last month to bring the U.S. back into the mainstream of the United Nations."

The Europeans are not alone in finding a change of atmosphere since Scranton — a 59-year-old millionaire lawyer, patrician, statesman and former Pennsylvania governor — moved into the 11th-floor ambassador's suite at the U.S. mission.

"He has handled his job with dignity and with serious interest in trying to find a solution to the problems here," said Ambassador Abdul Hamid Sharaf of Jordan.

"Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor'™ MERIT delivered more taste."

–American Institute of Consumer Opinion

Extensive taste-testing with thousands of smokers shows 'Enriched Flavor.' MERIT delivers more taste than higher tar brands.

The bottom line was conclusive: In a series of taste tests conducted for MERIT by the American Institute of Consumer Opinion, smokers from all across the country judged MERIT to have more flavor than five leading low tar cigarette brands.*

What's really startling—and of major importance to all smokers—is that MERIT has less tar than these five brands.

Less tar. Yet more taste.

That's the report on a remarkable new taste process called 'Enriched Flavor.' A way to pack tobacco with extra flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

'Enriched Flavor.' It's exclusive to MERIT. The cigarette with only 9 mg. tar, one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

MERIT MENTHOL is packed with 'Enriched Flavor' too. And in similar tests, 9 mg. MERIT MENTHOL was reported to deliver as much —or more— taste than the 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar menthol brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now smoke the cigarette.

MERIT.

IT'S PEOPLE PASSING PB photo by Vonne Robertson

Cal Poly Pomona students and Pomona Recreation Department workers team up for a new game, "People Pass", taught during a practice session this week at Palomares Park.

It's a New way to play Games

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Whether it's called "New Games" or "Recession Recreation," a new concept in recreational activities is sweeping the country.

To introduce the innovation locally, Bill Michaelis, a faculty member at Cal Poly Pomona and member of the New Games Foundation, is leading his college students in offering training sessions for school, city and organizational recreation leaders.

A training session last week drew 40 Pomona Parks and Recreation Department members to Palomares Park where they learned such games as Human Pyramid, Hug Tag, Infinity Volleyball, Standoff, Mating, Snake in the Grass, the Lap Game, People Pass, Earth Ball Pass, Bridge-Stone-Tree and Ducks and Cows.

"We tell kids to cooperate with each other and their families, then push them into highly competitive games," Michaelis said.

"Traditional sports have become highly organized, stylized, and regimented. Players are expected to measure up to the standards of athletes.

"Certain sports have come to be associated with certain age groups and sexes. With this separate and individual play preference, it becomes harder for families to play together and to appreciate each other in traditional sports."

The "New Games" concept is quite the opposite, Michaelis explained.

"The activities are designed to require cooperation, encourage family togetherness and reduce or de-emphasize competition," the professor added.

"And they are not expensive. Uniforms and fancy equipment or playing fields are not required. Thus the title of Recession Recreation."

Michaelis added that New Games are designed to bring diverse people together through play in such a way that racial, economic and social barriers are dissolved. In this way, a sense of community can develop, he said.

The games are designed so that anyone can play regardless of age, ability, sex or income.

"People are encouraged to play hard, play fair, play safely, just to play for the sake of meeting people," Michaelis said.

The university's training program offers recreation planners the opportunity to learn their communities' changing needs and to provide and appropriate context in which these needs can be met.

"Another major aim of the whole concept is just to have fun," Michaelis continued.

People Pass is typical of the games taught in sessions now being held throughout the valley.

In People Pass from 10 to 40 players form two lines standing shoulder to shoulder. The first person in line falls back and is lifted over the heads of the pairs of players by those in the front of the fine and passed overhead to the rear of the line. Then the next person falls back and is passed overhead until everyone has had a turn.

A twist on the highly competitive volleyball is the infinity variety where both teams cooperate to see just how long the ball can be passed back and forth over the net without stopping. All other rules of volleyball apply. The goal is to see how high a score can be attained, each team sharing the score.

The New Games Foundation has an advisory board and headquarters in San Francisco. The organization held its first tournament in 1973 in the Bay Area and a second meet in May 1974.

The philosophy of New Games is that the concept should be shared by everyone, Michaelis said.

"We want to share our experiences and ideas with youth group and recreation leaders in the community and have a book about to be published which should be a great help."

Cal Poly students assisting with the training session in Pomona were George McFarland, Melanie Hall, Valerie Boortz, Karie Woods, Cathy Webber, Janet Lietzau, Jane Nussdorfer, Kevin Peck and Mike Sooter.

Michaelis can be contacted at Cal Poly Recreation Department, 598-4623, for additional information.

A push for personal health care

Area honors Hospital Week

Valley hospitals are joining 7,000 others across the nation to celebrate National Hospital Week now through Saturday.

At Pomona Valley Community Hospital, posters and paycheck stuffers will remind employes of recommended daily health care precautions.

Patients will be given health care quizzes with meals at various times throughout the week.

"While PVCH is dedicated to caring for the ill, we want the community to know that our interest in their well being extends beyond their treatment in our institution," said Robert W. Burwell, administrator.

"We feel an obligation to educate people about steps they can take which will make valuable contributions to their own good health."

Doctors Hospital of Montclair is joining in the week's theme of encouraging the public to seek better health by practicing a few basic health principles and taking advantage of the health education information offered.

The Montclair hospital is seeking to make the community aware of its new cardiac catherization laboratory by conducting a series of inservice programs on topics related to the heart.

On Tuesday, classes will be held in the hospital conference room during the day to help people become more aware of signs of a possible heart attack and subsequent life-saving procedures.

Four valley hospitals have received recognition from the Join Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) in observance of National Hospital Week.

San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland, Garfield-Cottage Hospital and Park Avenue Hospital in Pomona, and Kaiser-Permanente Hospital in Fontana, received letters of commendation signed by Dr. John D. Porterfield, director of the joint commission.

Accreditation is awarded to hospitals that are found to be in compliance with the commission's national standards for the quality of patient care.

Park Avenue Hospital will celebrate its 33rd year with an open house, tours, exhibits and various free health examinations on May 25 from 6 to 9 p.m. The open house will be for friends of the hospital as well as newcomers to the community.

Analyzing the ruble rhetoric

The "defense-spending gap" may not turn out to be 1976's counterpart of the phony "missle gap" issue in 1960. But it has already generated a vast amount of heated debate among the presidential aspirants of both parties.

The Soviets, we are told, have twice as many men under arms as the United States, are turning out six times as many tanks, are devoting 15 per cent of their Gross National Product (GNP) to defense versus our six per cent, and so on.

Fortunately, one of the few Democrats who did not announce for the presidency, Rep. Les Aspin of Wisconsin, has issued a fact that that does wonders in piercing through the campaign rhetoric.

Take, for example, the contention that the Soviets are out spending us on defense by as much as 50 per cent, in terms of U. S. dollars.

To arrive at that estimate, Aspin points out, the intelligence agencies look at what the Soviets have in tanks, planes, manpower, etc., and then calculate what it would cost for all this in the United States.

But the Soviets don't spend dollars, they spend rubles. They pay their soldiers less than a ruble a week, yet we calculate how much it would cost to pay them American military wages. Thus this "dollar comparison" has a built-in bias that exaggerates Soviet defense spending.

If both defense budgets were calculated in rubles, the bias would be reversed and show the United States outspending the Soviets. The U. S., for example, uses a lot of high technology which is very expensive in the Soviet Union, if they have it at all.

Another seemingly alarming fact is the discovery by the CIA that the U.S.S.R. is spending 10 to 15 per cent of its GNP on defense instead of the six to eight per cent previously believed.

But this doesn't mean that the Russians have one more tank or one more plane than we previously believed, says Aspin. It just means we now know it costs them 2.5 times as many rubles for defense as we previously calculated.

This new discovery, he thinks, should be a source of comfort rather than alarm. For if the Soviets are spending 15 per cent of their GNP for what they have today, it will be much more difficult for them to expand much further without pushing their people to the wall.

As for the fact that the Russians have more men under arms than we do — 4.8 million to 2.1 million — this is the same level they had in 1959 and much of it can be accounted for by additional troops stationed on the Sino-Soviet border. Much of the Soviet manpower is also assigned to jobs we give to civilians.

Okay, what about weapons output? For one thing, says Aspin, Pentagon figures do not include allied production. In tanks, for example, our NATO allies produced almost as many in 1975 as we did. Russia's Warsaw Pact allies produced none.

Weapons estimates also ignore the question of quality. Pentagon charts list every Russian river craft that comes out of the yards and equates each one to a new U.S. aircraft carrier.

Missiles. The Pentagon likes to point out that the Russians have more missiles and bigger warheads. But the U.S. has more warheads and its lead in this category has been growing.

Even if the Soviets were to launch a devastating first strike that destroyed 50 per cent of our submarine missiles, 80 per cent of our B-52s and 90 per cent of our ICBMs, the United States would still have 3,100 surviving warheads, which is 10 per cent more than the Soviets have right now before any shots are fired. This would be enough to drop the equivalent of 200 Hiroshima-size bombs on every Russian city of more than 100,000 people.

The Russian military is indeed expanding slowly but steadily, Aspin concludes. But the American people must decide if this expansion warrants an increase in our own defense spending of the magnitude proposed by the Ford administration. His fact sheet should be required reading for every concerned American.

Toiling for taxes

No one is going to notice any difference in his paycheck, but May 1 was "Tax Freedom Day." That was the day, according to calculations by the Tax Foundation, Inc., that Americans finished working for the government(s).

Last year, "Tax Freedom Day" was April 30, and the year before that May 4. It moved back in 1975 and 1976 because of the tax cuts enacted by Congress.

It takes two hours and 39 minutes out of an eight-hour working day to pay for all taxes in 1976, says the Foundation. That breaks down into one hour and 41 minutes for federal taxes and 58 minutes for state and local taxes.

In terms of the amount of work to earn the money, taxes are by far the largest item in the average family budget. Housing and household expenses, for example, are one hour and 32 minutes; food and drink one hour and five minutes; transportation 39 minutes; medical care 25 minutes, and recreation 19 minutes.

CQE claims ridiculous

Dear Editor:

The other day we discovered a Feb. 13, 1971 (note the date) copy of the Claremont Courier which carried a school board article headlined "Pondering runs deep in cutting local costs."

Here are some excerpts: "Some 300 parents turned out Monday at a special school board meeting to put into in-put their ideas on how best the district can handle the housing of students.

"The concern was elicited after Superintendent Richard Kirkendall, taking a stab at budget preparation and worrying about where to house San Antonio High School students next year proposed a number of suggested actions . . . The superintendent's suggestions were predicted on district enrollment trends, down more than 200 students per year over the last two years and projected to continue down . . . educated guesses indicate that the district stands to lose roughly $160,000 next year . . . and over the past two years the board has been faced with cutting $1,250,000 from budgets . . . more cutting is in the offing."

"At Monday's meeting, parents who lumped themselves as worried taxpaying voters presented some alternate suggestions in a petition form. Their idea was that Sycamore Elementary School, where there are 340 students, should be closed to elementary students and used by San Antonio students . . . children in grades one to six would be dispersed to Chapparral, Mountain View and Oakmont schools . . . in support of their proposal to do away with Sycamore they noted that there was little likelihood of growth in that attendance area."

The CQE and Recall committee should be reminded that the school board and superintendent have faced this problems for more than five years. That in 1971 other concerned parents advocated the closing of Sycamore school and since then elementary enrollment in Claremont schools has steadily declined, including Sycamore, now down to 297. What else is new? It is ridiculous when the CQE claims that not enough time has been allowed to study these issues or the three board members have been unresponsive or hasty in their decision. — Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Schertz, Claremont

U.S. aiding Chilean junta

WASHINGTON — In defiance of both Congress and the United Nations, the Ford Administration has gone behind the barn to bolster the military dictatorship of Chile.

The UN, following up our own reports of repression and torture inside Chile, has condemned the junta for violating human rights. And only last week, the respected Inter-American Human Rights Commission denounced the junta for its torture tactics.

Congress reacted by imposing a $90 million limit on economic aid for Chile this fiscal year. It was the intent of Congress, clearly, that the aid should go directly to needy people. Other nations have also refused to extend credit to the beleaguered dictatorship.

Nevertheless, the Administration has shaken loose hidden money to bail out the junta. Here are the hush-hush developments:

— The Overseas Private Investment Corporation, a quasi-official U.S. institution, has quietly agreed to begin insuring companies that invest in Chile. The State Department, according to our sources, twisted OPIC arms. This should stimulate a flood of investment capital into the country.

— Both the State and Treasury departments have also encouraged 14 U.S. and Canadian banks to loan the military dictatorship $100 million to $125 million. The loan is needed to pay off short-term obligations to other countries. Britain and Italy have refused to reschedule Chilean debt payments because of the regime's human rights violations. New York's First National City Bank will put up most of the money for the junta, with the financial support of the Bank of America, several New York banks and two Canadian banks.

— U.S. advisers have also brought pressure upon the Inter-American Development Bank's President Antonio Ortiz Mena, who has promised that the bank will loan up to $125 million to Chile. The first $20 million already has been approved.

— The State Department gave Chile a $55 million housing guarantee that a House subcommittee believes exceeded the $90 million congressional ceiling. "The Administration clearly has sought to evade the spirit, if not the letter, of the congressional aid ceilings to Chile," declared Chairman Don Fraser, D-Calif.

We have been chronicling the Chilean saga since we reported on March 21, 1972, that the Central Intelligence Agency and International Telephone and Telegraph were conspiring together to undermine the Chilean economy. Their objective was to oust President Salvador Allende, an elected Marxist, from power.

The CIA at first denied participating in economic sabotage against the Allende regime but, three years later, was forced to confess our story was true after the Senate Intelligence Committee published the proof.

The former Nixon Administration, meanwhile, phased out economic aid to the Allende regime on the grounds that the Chilean economy was unstable. Under Allende, the inflation rate shot up from 22 per cent in 1971 to 163 per cent in 1972, with a 4.4 per cent unemployment rate. Since the military junta seized power, the inflation rate has soared to a stratospheric 340 per cent, with 16.6 per cent unemployment rate.

We have taken pains to point out, by the way, that the military rulers have oppressed not only the Marxists but the Christian Democrats.

Footnote: A spokesman for First National City Bank confirmed that the bank was studying the Chilean loan. A Bank of America spokesman refused to comment on our story. At the State Department, a spokesman acknowledged only that discussions had been held with OPIC. A Treasury official said the department was careful not to tell banks who should get loans but acknowledged: "They may have been encouraged by what our desk people tell them."

OPERATION MUDHEN: The Central Intelligence Agency, in violation of the law, kept us under physical photographic and electronic surveillance in 1972. Twenty men were assigned full time to the project, which was known inside the agency as "Project Mudhen."

Nevertheless, we continued to jolt the CIA with a series of stories right out of their files. We reported, for example, that corrupt government officials around the world profited from heroin sales to the U.S. Our story touched off a renewed investigation, since the information had come from classified CIA documents.

The cloak-and-dagger crowd, according to documents intended for their eyes only, suspected a federal narcotics employe had leaked the story. CIA Deputy Director Edward Proctor urged Richard Helms, then the CIA director, to speak with federal narcotics chief John Ingersoll.

"Offer technical assistance in determining who is responsible for passing the classified material to Jack Anderson," Proctor urged. Inside the CIA, "technical assistance" is a polite way of referring to bugging devices, lie detectors and even break-ins.

Proctor now assures us that he had in mind only lie detectors in this case, not the naughtier forms of "technical assistance." Of course any CIA assistance in a domestic investigation is a violation of law.

Selective assassination

They still have Richard Nixon to kick around. A new book out is called "The Final Days." It paints a compassionless picture of Mr. Nixon — those last days in the White House — drinking too much, talking to portraits of his predecessors, weeping, praying and thinking about suicide.

No political expose has ever degenerated into such a vicious personal vendetta since the relentless mud bath they gave Herbert Hoover in the Thirties. Incidentally, in the end he triumphed over his detractors.

By now the same writers who are sticking pins in Nixon have or could have much juicier files relating to the administration of John Kennedy, yet though some sordid details have surfaced there is no persistent, ceaseless "scraping of the scab" off those old cankers.

And that brings us to Bo Callaway. The original charge against Bo Callaway alleged that he had used his position of army secretary for personal gain. Here are the facts:

Six years ago and then a private citizen, Bo Callaway — already heir to the astronomical Callaway family textile fortune and in no way in need of money — purchased a major interest in a small ski resort in Crested Butte, Colo.

Almost everywhere in Colorado, the ski resorts do their skiing on National Forest land, controlled by the Forest Service and run by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

In 1971, still a private citizen, Callaway applied to the Forest Service for permission to expand his skiing area by an additional 2,000 acres of National Forest land. The preliminary report did not include this expansion.

Then, on July 3 of last year, on Callaway's final day after two years as secretary of the Army, he was visited in his Pentagon office by two longtime home-state Georgia friends from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Among other things they did discuss expanding his ski resort — and within six months the expansion was allowed.

But exhaustive investigation has established that there was no hanky-panky — no pressure from Callaway, directly or indirectly, on the Forest Service or on the Department of Agriculture or on any Colorado officials.

As to the other allegations that Callaway took trips to his ski resort in Army planes, it is Pentagon policy for high officials to travel in military planes for security reasons. But for all those personal trips, Callaway carefully and personally reimbursed the government.

The CAB decision to allow charter flights to Crested Butte, while not unusual, was made while Callaway was a private citizen. So Callaway has been cleared of any wrongdoing as he knew he would be — yet he voluntarily stepped aside as President Ford's campaign manager because he recognized that the black ink of ugly headlines leaves an indelible stain.

There is a "fairness doctrine" requiring TV and radio to give equal time to opposing political candidates.

I'd hate to see a "fairness doctrine" which would inhibit investigative reporting, but we're asking for it.

Just in jest

A poet is a poet and a scientist is a scientist, and unfortunately I have now learned that never the twain shall meet — even on the subject of hyacinths. Let us consider first the poet's version, written by James Terry White, who said:

"If thou of fortune be bereft
And in thy store there be but left
Two loaves, sell one and with the dole
Buy hyacinths to feed thy soul."

For years I have been taking that poet at his word and, romantic that I am, have been feeding my soul on hyacinths. What's more I probably would still be doing it for the rest of my life were it not for a recent little news item.

"Hyacinths," it pointed out, "have a built-in filtering system and thrive on a raw sewage diet." And as if that wasn't enough to start my soul doing sickening flip flops, the item further stated: "One pound of hyacinth refuse can produce 5 cubic feet of gas."

Let the light shine

By EARL G. WATERS

A recent television show visited a free clinic operated in the midwest by a successful physician who retired after many years of practice. What made the story unique is that the doctor is operating his clinic without government subsidy. He is donating his personal fortune as well as his professional services. To the community he is something near a saint.

At a time when the medical profession's image has sunk to an all time low, brought on by the incompetence of some and the avarice of too many of its practitioners, it brings a refreshing note of hope.

The militant doctor strikes and demonstrations, including a march on the State Capitol by the pampered and well-fed wives of disgruntled medics, have not only caused a public reaction of disgust but brought strong condemnation from professional leaders. No less a person than Dr. Max Parrott, president of the American Medical Association, has declared such actions "unprofessional and anti-social."

Since it is well known that doctors enjoy incomes far above the ordinary citizens and considerably higher than most others in the so-called upper middle class, their misguided efforts to enlist public sympathy have met with outstanding failure.

One wonders why, then, their leadership hasn't led in a positive approach by doing more to publicize the best side of the profession. The midwest doctor isn't one of a kind. Many doctors, including large numbers in California, have been regularly donating their services all their lives to worthy causes.

It may not be well known but one of the greatest charities is the Shriner Hospitals which rehabilitate crippled children and burn victims without regard to race or creed. These hospitals, financed with Shriner dues and unsolicited donations, depend heavily upon the free professional services of thousands of specialists.

Unfortunately, the incompetent few and the greed of some have overshadowed the superior health services provided Californians and the good deeds of thousands. It also has eclipsed the fact that there are many dedicated doctors laboring long and hard in poor neighborhoods for minimal fees.

For example, take the case of Dr. Marco R. Rago. Born in the slums of Los Angeles he, like many other Californians then and now, because of too few medical training facilities in this state, was forced to seek his medical education elsewhere. Upon graduation from Creighton University he entered the Air Corps serving throughout WWII. Since that time he has served eight years on the State Board of Health and a term on the State Board of Medical Examiners. Active in civic affairs as chairman of United Crusade and on advisory committee for the mayor of Los Angeles, he also has made time to serve as American Legion commander and engage in fraternal and service club functions.

But what makes Dr. Rago notable is his medical practice. Unlike many who gave their first productive years to military service, Dr. Rago disdained a lucrative specialist practice in some plush district like Beverly Hills and opted for general practice in the neighborhood where he was born.

"These are my people," he fervently declares, "and I am going to take care of them." He invented a form of "medi-care" before it was ever heard of and established fees which were to prove lower than those eventually approved for medi-care. And, no bill collectors, "If they can't pay my fees," he said, "they really need my help." He never turns a patient away. His gigantic office waiting room looks every bit a free clinic as he treats well over a hundred patients each afternoon. His mornings are spent in French Hospital where he has served as chief of staff and as a director.

The midwest doctor with his free clinic may have been all but canonized by TV but he is not the only physician dedicated to helping his fellow man. Dr. Rago has been doing it all of his life but there are many others in California also dedicated. The CMA should let the light shine upon them.

Education benefits of $1,089 received

I completed U. S. Navy service in September 1975.

On Dec. 20 I turned in all my college and veteran's papers for admission to the winter quarter at Chaffey College.

On Jan. 5 I begin classes. As yet I have not received any assistance from the Veteran Administration.

I am married and have four children.

Since I left the service, the only job I have been able to get is working part-time as a security guard for $2.32 per hour.

Every time I contact the veterans assistance office on campus I am referred to the Los Angeles regional office. When I contact the VA, the process is reversed.

Could you help me get my education benfits? — J. C., Claremont.

We called your plight to the trouble-shooting crew of the Veterans Administration.

As a result a special payment of $1,089.32 was mailed to you. It represents back pay for a monthly rate set up for you. Future monthly payments should reach you without difficulty.

You sent us a clipping listing imported and local brands of mineral water.

Starting in Chino and moving west, we made half a dozen phone calls before we located Vichy mineral water from France and the Calso brand from Molino Park, Calif., at Greene's Liquor and Delicatessen in Pomona.

In reply to an ad dated Jan. 27, I sent $19.95 plus $2 for handling for Webster's eight pound, 1,454-page dictionary.

I have not received the book or any reply to a letter I wrote to Webster's Dictionary Co. — M. B., Pomona.

Our letter to the company brought a note that your dictionary was shipped March 29 and that you should allow eight to 10 weeks from the date your check was cashed for delivery. Your check was cashed on Feb. 19.

From previous experience with Webster's we are sure you will get your dictionary.

However, now seems to be a good time to tell our readers how mail order merchandise firms should operate to comply with the law. Our sources are the Federal Trade Commission and the U. S. Postal Service.

If an ad or brochure says the manufacturer will "rush" your order to you in less than a week, for example, the manufacturer should ship it to your within that time.

If no date is stated by the seller, you have the right to have your merchandise shipped to you within 30 days.

If the seller doesn't ship your mercandise within the stated time or within 30 days you have the right to cancel your order and get your money back.

If you receive merchandise in the mail which you did not order, federal law says you may consider it a gift and keep it without paying for it.

Advice to abortion-deciders

Dear Ann Landers: Recently an 18-year-old girl wrote and asked if she should have an abortion. She said it was not against her religion but was afraid the guilt might haunt her forever. You said, "Don't do it!"

May I say a few words to that young woman and to others who may be struggling with the same decision?

My husband and I were told we would never be able to have a family. We immediately put our names in at two adoption agencies. We waited for two years and were becoming very discouraged. Then we received that wonderful phone call. A young girl was about to deliver in three weeks. She had decided to give up her child for adoption. You should have seen my husband. We went into orbit. It was unreal. I was on Cloud 9. We immediately called in the painters and the paperhangers. The den was turned into a nursery. Our families, friends and neighbors brought gifts. Now all we had to do was wait.

Then the call came. The doctor said we had a beautiful, seven-pound baby girl. After five days of indescribable excitement, we drove to the hospital to pick up our angel. We never saw the mother, which I'm sure was best for all concerned.

I would like to say a word to that courageous young woman. Thank you, dear little mother, for having the maturity and wisdom to give up your child. She has brought real meaning and joy to our lives.

There will be times when you will wonder how your little girl is getting along, and what life would have been like had you kept her. Let me assure you she is being cared for and loved by a grateful family.

Hopefully you will one day marry and have other children, but the memory of your first-born will always be with you. Please know you will be remembered in our prayers as the most courageous and unselfish person in the world. — No Name, No City, No Initials

Dear Friends: I wonder how many young mothers will wonder if this letter was meant for them. A good many, I hope. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is no big deal, but I hope you will print it because I'll bet there are loads of teens like myself who are bugged plenty by this. (I'm a 15-year-old high school sophomore.)

When someone phones me and I am not at home, nobody ever bothers to tell me. The next day at school, Mary or Bill or Joanie will say, "Why didn't you call me back?" I have to tell them I didn't know they called. This is embarrassing because it looks like nobody in my family cares enough about me to give me a message, which is humiliating and irritating. It also makes me wonder how many good times I have missed out on because of my famiily's lack of consideration. — Meriden, Conn.

Dear Conn.: Read this column aloud at the dinner table tonight. Tell your family you wrote the letter. Offer to put a message pad by the phone with a pen or pencil attached. Ask them if they will please jot down the name of anyone who calls in your absence. Offer to do the same for them. If you make this request like a lady (no yelling or accusations) it should generate a feeling of peace and harmony — and I'll bet you'll get your messages in the future.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Writing slow as a tortoise

"Slow as molassis." "Dog tired." "Hard as nails." "Obscure as a cliche."

Colloquial phrases, images and metaphorical comparisons such as these stud our language like raisins in a pudding, lending richness, color and obfuscation to the simple art of communication.

We can all do it. "Slow as morning traffic on the freeway." "Scarce as parking places in Pomona." "Colder than the YMCA showers."

I like the practice. A simple phrase such as "quick as a wink" is scientifically inaccurate, but the exaggeration and image make the message clear.

When you park the car and say to your wife, "I'll be out quick as a wink," she knows you won't, but she wouldn't believe you if you said I'll be out in 1/50th of a second, either.

Some years ago in the summer doldrums, the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry undertook to measure some of these images to see what we were talking about. Don't ask me why. Maybe somebody ought to measure the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry.

With all sorts of photographic paraphernalia, the Oregon scientists timed the average flicker of an eye and came up with that 1/50th of a second. So now we know. The museum did not measure OTHER winks, which are as long as necessary.

They timed a snail to find what "a snail's pace" is. The snail galloped along at two inches a minute, or roughly .001 miles per hour — the exact speed of freeway traffic in the rush hour.

A fog that is "thick as pea soup," the scientists discovered is .4 per cent thicker than water. This complicated experiment was conducted by opening a can of pea soup and measuring its specific gravity. How about its specific hilarity?

Nothing was said in the report about what happend to the soup after the experiment. Possibly the staff popped the snail in, heated it over a Bunson burner, and all sat down to a bowl of bouillabaisse for lunch. That'll teach the little rascal not to go slithering around the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry.

Finishing their tasty repast, the scientists measured a stone's throw and "quick as lightning" and "hard as nails." They refused to calculate the length of time until Hell freezes over, and they overlooked "a month of Sundays" and "once in a blue moon." Still work to be done, men.

Actually we don't need scientific instruments to test our cliches. For a tree estimate of a snail's pace, you need only measure the speed with which your wife dresses when you are already late for the party at the Blakes. Hold a watch on her after she says, "Be down in a minute." Or a calendar.

As fast as lightning has no relation to reality unless you've timed a small boy coming through the door on the last day of school. He can help you with that "stone's throw," too. The exact distance from your front yard to your neighbor's picture window.

Pea soup is as thick as Los Angeles smog but somewhat tastier. A nail is as hard as your thumb, which you hit instead. "Sound as a dollar" means as shakey as a South American government.

And "mad as a March hare" aptly describes museums that spend their time measuring the Great American Cliche.

Data on calories not right

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am on a 1,000 calorie-a-day diet. I found it necessary to take hamburger off my menu because it contains 100 calories an ounce. In the store I have noticed hamburger marked lean and extra lean. I wonder whether this type of hamburger would contain the same amount of calories per ounce as regular hamburger since most of the fat drains away, or whether it would contain fewer calories. Could you give me an estimate of the calories per ounce in extra lean hamburger?

DEAR READER — I sometimes think that 90 per cent of the food value information available to people must be wrong. At least it certainly isn't consistent with the values from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Regular ground raw hamburger contains only 76 calories per ounce. Cooked hamburger (cooked weight) contains only 82 calories per ounce. Remember the cooked weight not only has fat drained away from it, but the cooking process also eliminates water that is present in raw meat. Lean hamburger, raw, contains 51 calories per ounce and cooked 63 calories per ounce.

The number of calories per ounce in hamburger certainly is dependent upon the amount of fat that's ground with it. If you want to have hamburger meat that's lean you can get round steak or even a good lean roast and cut away all the fat. The separable lean of round steak contains only 39 calories per ounce raw and only 54 calories per ounce cooked (broiled).

People who like hamburger and want to get rid of the fat because they are on a calorie restricted diet can grind their own lean meat, season it with any number of the meat sauces and broil it. This keeps it from being dry and still gives you a high protein meat patty. You can cook the unground separable lean of round steak the same way.

So much for your hamburger problem. My question is why are you on a 1,000-calorie diet? That is a greater restriction than most men should be on, and I think it's a greater restriction even than most small women should be on. The sensible way to lose weight is gradually.

Crash diets are dreadful. At the beginning of a diet you may lose a lot of water and empty out the digestive tract. This five to six pound loss the first week is not fat. The purpose of a diet is to get rid of body fat.

After the initial first week a sensible diet should result in about one pound of fat loss a week. Certainly no more than two pounds.

One purpose of dieting is to learn how to eat properly. You might as well adjust your eating habits with a good balanced diet to start with. That way you can stay slim once you have achieved your goal rather than having the yo-yo effect of being fat and slim, fat and slim, dried out from loss of body water by using crash diet fads and then rehydrated with water again when you get off the diet.

For more information on sensible dieting send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Send a long-stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Ask the Jacobys

We keep getting questions about whether or not it is necessary to play a club opening bid as forcing merely because you may open a three-card suit.

The answer to that one is that every expert will open a three-card club suit with a hand he considers appropriate, but practically no expert plays the bid as forcing. It is no tragedy to play one club undoubled with a three-card suit on the rare occasions when everyone does pass.

Angels sweep Indians

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — The Angels flew to Oakland today with the momentum of a three-game winning streak behind them.

Sunday-s 3-2 win over the Cleveland Indians was the Halos' third straight win sparked by their third straight eighth-inning rally.

Oakland, meanwhile, dropped two out of three games to the sizzling Yankees.

"We're beginning to play better now," Manager Dick Williams understated modestly. "Our pitching has been outstanding all year. Our hitting should be outstanding."

Pitching matchups for the two games in Oakland are Nolan Ryan (3-2) vs. Paul Mitchell (0-1) tonight and Gary Ross (0-4) vs. Vida Blue Tuesday in a game to be televised on KTLA (5) at 8 p.m.

The Angels now have finished the opening round of play with the American League Eastern Division teams. They won eight of 20. The next 25 games are all against Western teams.

In disposing of the Tribe Sunday, the Halos beat an old nemesis, Fritz Peterson. Peterson, the stocky former Yankee, came into the game burdened with a 5.40 earned run average and an 0-2 record.

But against the Angels he is something else. His lifetime record is 18-7 against the Halos. And through seven innings Sunday, he had them blanked on two scattered singles (by Bobby Bonds and Dave Chalk).

But the magic eighth cured the sick bats. Lee Stanton ripped a leadoff double. Chalk popped out, but then two rookie pinch-hitters came through.

Ron Jackson and Paul Dade were recently called up from Salt Lake City.

Jackson, batting for Andy Etchebarren, drew a walk. Dade, hitting for Orlando Ramirez, grounded his first hit of the season into centerfield driving in Stanton and knocking out Peterson.

In trotted Indian lefthander Dave LaRoche who had been warming up only a short time. Still throwing in the bullpen was righthander Jim Bibby who had been throwing considerably longer.

LaRoche got Jerry Remy on a drive to center for the second out. But Rusty Torres jumped on a LaRoche offering and slammed it up the alley in left centerfield for a triple driving in the tying and winning runs.

"When I was going up there I was just trying to get a basehit," Torres said. "I just wanted to make contact and get a hit or walk so I could get on base someway."

Torres, a switch-hitter, was hitting only .133 (4-for-30) and was 0-for-3 when he faced the lefthanded LaRoche. Lefthanded, he is averaging .241 (13-for-54).

"I haven't been struggling (at the plate)," he insisted. "I have been making good contact. I've always hit well. I led Cleveland and New York in pinch hitting when I was there. I just never got to play much. I was a late-inning defensive replacement, pinch-runner and pinch-hitter. So I never hit for much average."

Torres was with the Yankees in 1972 and the Indians in 1973 and '74. The Angels got him along with pitcher Charlie Hudson for pitcher Bill Gilbreth. He spent last year at Salt Lake City and batted .306.

"If I play regularly in the major leagues, I should be able to hit between .280 and .300," he said quietly.

Frank, "Top Banana," Tanana was the benefactor of the Angels' outburst. Tanana (2-3) hadn't won in his last three starts even though his ERA for the stretch was a magnificent 1.23.

It looked bad for him again Sunday when the Indians erupted for both runs in the second inning. Rico Carty's single, a walk to Charlie Spikes and Doug Howard's double did the trick.

Oddly, Tanana had struck out the side in the first inning. He finished with eight Ks, two walks and three hits.

Jim Lonborg stops Dodgers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers, their 12-game winning streak replaced by a two-game loss string in Philadelphia over the weekend, take on the St. Louis Cardinals here tonight.

Sunday, the Dodgers lost their second straight to Philadelphia, 10-3, after the Phillies had ended the Los Angeles victory string the day before.

Sunday saw the end of another streak, as the Dodgers' Doug Rau, who took a 4-0 record and a 10-game winning streak into the game, lost for the first time since Aug. 23.

In Sunday's game, the Dodgers were baffled by Phillies pitcher Jim Lonborg, whose career was being written off just six months ago.

At the beginning of the season, the only guy in Florida who thought Lonborg had a chance was Lonborg. Now his record is 4-0, topped off with Sunday's near-perfect game against the Dodgers.

The 33-year-old hurler missed half of last season after injuring his shoulder. Not only could he not throw through a pane of glass, he couldn't throw period.

The Phillies were so sure Lonborg was done, they went out in the winter market and acquired pitchers Ron Reed and Jim Kaat in trades. Even Lonborg, the one-time Cy Young Award winner with the Boston Red Sox, got the message.

Most experts, including the Phillies' brass, were certain the shortened spring training had spelled the end for Lonborg. When the camps finally opened, Lonborg pitched as well as he did in 1974, when he led the Phillies' staff with a 17-13 record. He showed no sign of the shoulder injury.

In his latest victory, he came dangerously close to a perfect game—for 6 1-3 innings. He struck out seven of those first 19 batters.

He needed ninth-inning relief help from Ron Reed, but, as Dodgers first baseman Steve Garvey attested, Lonborg was masterful.

"He pitched better than anybody I've faced in the last year or two," Garvey said. "That's a pretty good testimony, because I play 162 games a year and see some good ones. I've seen more overpowering pitchers ... but as far as total control of the game, Lonborg had it."

Bill Buckner ended any thoughts of a no-hitter, though, when he hit a long drive into right-center that found the gap for a double.

The Phillies made it easy for Lonborg with 14 hits, including three hits and two RBI by Maddox, and Greg Luzinski's fourth home.

Busby knocks out Gregg

By CURT WEBSTER
PB Correspondent

All told, there were some eight hours of racing action Sunday during the International Motorsports Spectacular at Ontario Motor Speedway.

But the biggest story of the afternoon took place in a matter of seconds.

Jim Busby of Laguna Beach was dueling for the lead in the 100-mile Camel GT feature race with series star Peter Gregg of Jacksonville, Florida when the two went side-by-side into the OMS road course's tight, tight, tight Turn One at the start of Lap 26. Gregg had a slight edge at the time.

But driving hard into the low spot on the turn, Busby made contact with Gregg. The pair spun, with Busby's Porsche Carrera T-boning Gregg's BMW. Each came to a halt in the infield. Gregg's engine died, but Busby's continued to run, and the 34-year old road racing veteran left the scene.

Gregg eventually got running again, but he had lost considerable ground to Busby. The incident proved to be enough of a break for Busby, who cruised to his first-ever Camel GT Challenge victory, edging Gregg by a mere 2.319 seconds.

Gregg protested the incident after the race, but withdrew his claim after consultation with International Motorsports Association officials.

"I feel very bad about it," Busby told reporters afterwards. "Peter and I are good friends, but that's motor racing."

The apologetic Busby explained that he had been attempting to "outbreak" Gregg's car by recovering from infield turns quicker. "My strategy of outbreaking him probably caused the accident," Busby confessed. "In fact, I'm sure of it."

The body damage resulting from the incident was remarkably minor, though Busby reported "minor handling problems" and some reduced acceleration from a bent tail pipe.

Earlier in the race, Michael Keyser of Towson, Maryland, who had been making some headlines for bumping incidents with Gregg a week ago at Laguna Seca, had been getting phenomenal acceleration out of his Monza, and appeared to have the race locked up, until a broken transmission forced him out of competition on Lap 17.

Mike Brockman of Beverly Hills, driving the Levitt Racing Corvette, was running comfortably in second place in the early going until he pitted with spark plug problems on Lap 16. Brockman returned to the race after a considerable delay to finish a disappointing 23rd.

Busby completed the race in one hour, one minute, and 12 seconds, averaging 96.657 m.p.h. for the 34 laps.

Gregg had little trouble in winning the first qualifying heat for the Camel GT 100, a 50-mile affair in which he finished some 10.447 seconds ahead of Brockman. The first heat featured a spectacular duel for second place between Brockman's Corvette and Charlie Kemp's Mustang II, which finished fourth following a spin.

Keyser won the second heat by 1.634 seconds over Busby.

Bob Matkovich of Cupertino survived a bad crash two laps from the end of the race when his Corvette made contact with another car and slammed into the wall at the top of the main straightaway. Matkovich was taken to San Antonio Community Hospital, where he was not admitted after a precautionary examination. Matkovich later returned to OMS.

The Number Two attraction of the program was the Mark C. Bloome 100 for the small sedan B. F. Goodrich series. Gene Felton of Atlanta, Georgia, topped Carson Baird of Laurel, Maryland by 11.163 seconds to take away Baird's Ontario Goodrich crown which he won two years ago in a three-hour enduro.

Felton, piloting a Gremlin, took the lead on Turn Two of the 34-lap event, and held it all the way for a virtual wire-to-wire victory. Baird continues to lead the Goodrich Challenge points race after five events, having accumulated 69 points, but Felton's victory Sunday strengthened his hold on second place in the standings with 60.

West Coast fans got their first look Sunday at a popular East Coast attraction, the Formula Atlantic series. Formula Atlantic, which functions nicely as a training ground for Formula One World Championship drivers, closely resembles the European Formula Two cars and is reminiscent of American Formula 5000 racers.

Gilles Villenueve of Wickham, Quebec, Canada, won the 75-mile Formula Atlantic race held early Sunday afternoon to boost his point lead in that series. Villeneuve, piloting a green March 76b, finished 15.187 seconds ahead of La Crescenta's road racing ace, Elliott Forbes-Robinson, who was at the wheel of a Tui BH-2.

Oh, yes, and then there was Bobby and Cha Cha.

Anyone who was lured to OMS Sunday on the understanding that there would be a legitimate race between renowned male chauvinist hustler Bobby Riggs and top-notch Top Fuel female drag racing champion Shirley "Cha Cha Muldowney was sorely disappointed, as it turned out.

A chalked-out pylon-marked slalom course on the main straightaway was the scene of Riggs' latest foray against feminism. Rather than actually race each other, Riggs and Muldowney drove the course in opposite directions in identical Mercury Bobcats. They stopped in the middle, stepped up to a putting green, where they each attempted to putt 10 golf balls into cups.

Much to Muldowney's chagrin, Riggs sunk five of his putts. The pair then leaped back into their cars, drove the course once more, and met in the middle again. Cha Cha posted a time on the course four-tenths of a second quicker, but Riggs' putting record gave him the nod for the event.

If anyone can figure out what all that proved, please contact this reporter.

Speaking of illegitimate sporting events, Ed Arnold of KABC-TV edged Barbara Hunter of KNBC-TV in a Sportscaster's Challenge in golf carts which involved a similar putting contest. Jay Lawrence of KLAC Radio won the Disc Jockey Challenge on the slalom course. Lawrence did not have to putt en route to his victory.

Stags are in 'mini' tourney

Claremont-Mudd coach Bill Arce was informed late Sunday evening that his team would be in today's NAIA "mini" playoffs.

The protest, lodged by Westmont College in Saturday's 8-4 loss to Cal Lutheran, was disallowed by the protest committee. That gave Westmont a percentage of .587 (27-19) to the Stags' .595 (22-15) and put the Stags back in the playoffs.

C-M was scheduled to meet Point Loma (23-17) on the Citrus College Diamond at 11 a.m. At the same time, Whittier (20-15) was slated to meet Cal Lutheran (28-11) on the Azusa Pacific baseball field.

The two winners were to meet at 3 p.m. at APC to determine which one advances to the main portion of the playoffs. La Verne, Azusa Pacific and Cal State Dominguez Hills are already in by virtue of having won division or conference championships.

The four-team main event, a double elimination tourney, will be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Glover Field (formerly La Palma Park) in Anaheim. Pairings and game times will be announced in Tuesday's Progress Bulletin.

American Christian plays at home

CIF playoff pairings to be set Wednesday

As many as eight local baeball squads could be involved in the upcoming CIF playoffs, but most of them are going to have to wait a couple days before their opening-round opponents are known.

The pairings in the 2A, 3A and 4A divisions were supposed to be announced Sunday, but numerous rainouts last Thursday and Friday foiled that idea. Many leagues will be hastily involved in makeup contests today and Tuesday, with the playoff situation now scheduled to be resolved on Wednesday.

Until then, local squads who appear to have nailed down playoff bids will have to remain idle.

The 1A pairings have been announced, and one local team made the 16-team field. American Christian, champion of the Christian League, will open 1A action Tuesday at home.

The Minutemen will play at 3:15 p.m. at Ralph Welch Park Tuesday vs. either Notre Dame or Big Bear. Those two Arrowhead League clubs have a makeup contest on tap for today which will determine American's foe.

The valley's lone representative in the 4A playoffs will be Chaffey High. The Tigers finished second in the Citrus Belt League with a 10-5 loop mark.

San Antonio League co-champs Upland and Montclair are assured of spots in the 3A playoffs, with Pomona a possible third team from the SAL.

Hacienda titlist Bonita and runner-up Walnut are also assured of berths in the 2A competition, with third-place San Dimas also in the running for a bid.

Canadiens prevail in overtime

MONTREAL (AP) — Overtime approached. In less than two minutes, the Montreal Canadiens and Philadelphia Flyers would have completed the regulation three periods without deciding the opening game of their Stanley Cup final playoff series.

The crowd of 17,582 at the Forum had been driven to a frenzy as the Canadiens fell behind 2-0, came back to tie, then did the same after trailing 3-2.

Above the hoarse cries of encouragement, Canadiens left wing Steve Shutt recognized the voice of a teammate calling for the puck he possessed.

"I yelled to him," said defenseman Guy Lapointe. "He got it over to me and I was going to pass but I couldn't see anyone to pass to" as the play crossed the Philadelphia blue line.

"So I figured I better shoot it," said Lapointe, who figured correctly. His 20-foot shot found the mark with 1:22 remaining and Montreal, the league's fastest slow-starting team, had a 43 triumph Sunday night.

It's just as well, according to Lapointe, that the extra session wasn't needed. "I don't like to play overtimes," he said. "It's tough on the stomach. One mistake, and all the guys feel like you let them down."

After just 21 seconds Sunday night, the fans were let down when Philadelphia's Reggie Leach scored his 16th goal of the playoffs to become the leading single-season netfinder in postseason history. Leach's record goal, eclipsing the mark of 15 set by Montreal's Yvan Cournoyer in 1973, was the only shot the Flyers managed in the game's first 10 minutes.

Some 12 minutes later, Ross Lonsberry backhanded a Mel Bridgman pass past Canadiens goalie Ken Dryden and the fans—who later would be cheering—were quiet.

"The guys were kicking themselves after the first period," said Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman. "If we don't get the next goal, we're in trouble."

But the 15-minute intermission revitalized the potent Canadiens' attack, and the Flyers suddenly began skating in mud. Before 6½ minutes had been played in the middle period, goals by Jim Roberts and Larry Robinson had evened the score.

Dryden explained why. "The time we are most effective against the Flyers is when we pick up the pace," he said. "If we play at their speed, the Flyers are the more effective team. But when we really get going, that's when we're dangerous."

"In the second period our forwards started floating," observed Coach Fred Shero, whose Flyers are trying to become the third team in National Hockey League history to win three Stanley Cups in a row. "Our defense stayed in too much. We were getting caught on two-on-ones and three-on-twos."

It was the Montreal defense that was caught at 5:17 of the third period, when Philadelphia defenseman Larry Goodenough sent a power play wrist shot past Dryden's late-kicking right leg.

The Flyers' lead was shortlived, for five minutes later Jacques Lemaire banked a backhander into the Philadelphia net off the goal post. Moments later, a spectacular toe save by netminder Wayne Stephenson stopped a Jim Roberts' rocket and brought the fans to their feet.

Most likely, they'd have been there anyway, for time was winding down and the last two minutes would be hectic. "When you're in the last two minutes of a game like this," said Bowman, "it's like suddendeath overtime."

COVERED— Golden State's Clifford Ray moves or to stop Phoenix guard Paul Westphal. Phoenix center Alvin Adams sets pick on other Warrior in NBA action Sunday at Phoenix. Suns won, 133-129 in double overtime, to even the semifinal series at two games apiece.

Suns outlast Warriors

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "It seemed like it was going to go on forever," said Golden State guard Phil Smith, who led all players with 40 points only to have the Phoenix Suns take a 133-129 double overtime decision over the Warriors and draw even in their National Basketball Association playoff series 2-2.

"We could have easily won it, but lost," Smith said after Sunday's nationally televised Game Four of the best-of-seven Western Conference finals playoff. "We had an opportunity to put it away and blew it."

The series shifts to Oakland Wednesday night and back to Phoenix Friday night.

Golden State was on top 112-110 with eight seconds to play when Keith Erickson took a pass and drilled a 25-foot field goal to trigger the first overtime.

"(Rick) Barry had been sloughing off me all day, and I had a feeling I'd be able to get the ball," said Erickson. "The ball was to go to anybody open, and with eight seconds remaining we knew we could get off a shot of some sort."

Ricky Sobers rescued the Suns with a pair of pressure foul shots in Overtime One, and Erickson sank eight points in the final extra period.

G-State used goals by George Johnson and Barry for a 123-119 advantage early in the final overtime but goals by Erickson and Dick Van Arsdale tied it, and Erickson made a shot from the corner for a permanent Phoenix lead at 2:38.

Erickson finished with 28 points to lead his club while Van Arsdale had 20, his highest output since breaking his left wrist last month and losing his starting spot to Sobers.

Barry, who has tallied 120 points in the series, dropped in 22 in Sunday's second half. Teammate Jamaal Wilkes scored 24 and pulled down 14 rebounds. Gar Heard of Phoenix topped the rebounders with 18. NBA Rookie of the Year Alvan Adams grabbed 16 for the Suns. Heard scored 22 points and Adams 19.

Early foul troubles finally benched three Golden State starters and contributed to a seven-point Suns lead in the first period. Phoenix stretched the lead to 47-36 at one point in the second period but fell to a cozy 65-63 advantage at intermission.

Despite five steals by the Warriors, the Suns led by two to six points through the third period, but Golden State capitalized on Suns' miscues for the final-quarter advantage.

With the Warriors ahead 111-110 and :09 to play, Erickson missed an Adams pass and the ball bounced out of bounds.

"The only chance we felt we had at that point was to foul Derrek Dickey," said Suns Coach John MacLeod. "We instructed Adams to tell the official so he would be alert for it."

Dickey hit one of two free shots, making it 112-110.

Barry nearly won it when an off-balance shot bounced off the rim with no time showing in the first extra period.

"I didn't get a good look at the basket on that shot," he explained. "There was so little time left. We could've gained a lot, but we didn't lose anything today."

Fourth quarter key for Celtics' success

BOSTON (AP) — The mighty Boston Celtics have given the Cleveland Cavaliers a dose of fourth-quarter blues in winning the first two games of their National Basketball Association series at friendly Boston Garden.

Now the series moves to Cleveland for the third and fourth games Tuesday night and Friday night, the big question is: can the Celtics keep it up against the upstart Cavaliers?

The key was on veteran forward Paul Silas' mind Sunday after the Celtics rallied for a 94-89 victory and a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven playoff for the NBA Eastern Conference championship.

"It seems we can always come up with the effort when we need it," said Silas, who scored just seven points but grabbed 19 rebounds. "I don't know what will happen when we return back and it's not the fact, I don't know how many games we'll be able to play where we can return back for it. It's good that as there today or we would have been in trouble."

The Celtics, who broke open a 77-77 tie in the fourth period for a 111-99 victory in the first game, did it again Sunday, rallying from a three-point deficit in the final 12 minutes.

Kept alive by Jo Jo White's 14 points in the third period, the Celtics took charge as Charlie Scott came off the bench despite foul trouble.

Scott hit for two long bombs, sandwiched around a basket by Cleveland's Austin Carr. Scott's second field goal ignited an explosion of 11 consecutive points, including five by Dave Cowens and four by John Havlicek.

Cowens scored his five, and Havlicek got two after Cleveland center Nate Thurmond, filling in for injured Jim Chones, fouled out with 7:36 remaining. The Cavaliers refused to quit, but the Boston scoring spree was too much to overcome.

White topped all scorers with 24 points. Havlicek finished with 20, Scott 16 and Cowens 15. Bobby Smith and Dick Snyder had 16 apiece for Cleveland.

The game hardly could be considered an artistic success as each team was guilty of 24 turnovers, many at critical times.

"I wasn't too pleased with our offense, and defensively I wasn't pleased until the second half," Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn said.

"I don't think we played very well," Silas said. "It was a good one to get out of our system. It would have been a much easier game if we hadn't turned over the ball so much. There is no excuse for carelessness."

Although the Cavaliers had a 39-36 advantage in field goals, Coach Bill Fitch was unhappy with his team's reluctance to shoot.

"You don't score points passing the ball, and if you scored points by dribbling the ball we would have won at halftime, and everyone could have gone home."

"This series is far from over," Fitch said.

Hayes wins in a breeze

DALLAS (AP) — "It's been a long time coming," said Mark Hayes with a sigh, "but this is the greatest thrill of my life. I just hope it's going to be easier to win next time."

If it were much easier it would be illegal.

The lean, handsome young Oklahoman, leading from start to finish, blazed home with a 69 Sunday and won the $200,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic almost in a breeze.

It was his first triumph after four years on the tour.

He assaulted the par-71 Preston Trail golf course with rounds of 66, 67 and 71 before the closing 69 that left him 11 under par at 273 and two shots ahead of runnerup Don Bies.

"Next time," grinned Hayes, 26, tucking a $40,000 check in his pocket, "I'm going to come from behind and win ... it's not much fun to lead every day. I was so afraid of losing that it was really bad for me."

Bies banked $22,800 for his second-place finish that included a closing 68 and a vague threat during the nationally televised windup to the weather-plagued affair.

"I really thought if I shot a 67 or 68 today I'd have an excell

National League roundup

Perfectos just missed

By Associated Press

There have been only 11 perfect games pitched in major league baseball history. No one expects either Brent Strom or Jim Lonborg to be No. 12—especially Strom and Lonborg.

"I don't expect to do it," said Philadelphia's Lonborg after he pitched perfect baseball for 613 innings before settling for a 10-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday.

"You have to be lucky to pitch a no-hitter against anybody," said San Diego's Brent Strom, who tossed perfect baseball against the New York Mets for 51-3 innings, no-hit baseball for 61-3 innings and wound up with a 4-0, two-hit shutout.

"You have to have good stuff and you have to be lucky."

Elsewhere in the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Atlanta Braves 5-2, the Houston Astros pounded the St. Louis Cardinals 10-5, the Cincinnati Reds crushed the Chicago Cubs 14-2 and the Montreal Expos blanked the San Francisco Giants 8-0 in the second game of their doubleheader after losing the opener 4-2.

The first batter Lonborg faced in the seventh inning was Dave Lopes, who slammed a screamer to the left-center field wall. But Garry Maddox tracked it down with a tumbling grab.

Lonborg, 4-0, said Maddox' sensational catch made him think he was ready for immortality.

"I got goose bumps," said Lonborg of Maddox' acrobatics. "I thought I could go on to make the pitches necessary to do the job."

But the next batter, Bill Buckner, turned Lonborg into a mere mortal again. Buckner hit the first pitch into the gap in right-center field and it eluded both center fielder Maddox and Ollie Brown for a double.

"That was a pretty decent slider that Buckner hit for a double," Lonborg said. "But after that, my pitches didn't go where I wanted them to."

Maddox said his racing after Lopes' drive didn't give him enough time to position himself for Buckner.

"I didn't have time to think or I'd have been further (toward right) on Buckner," Maddox said.

Steve Garvey made Maddox' concern moot when he followed Buckner with a single.

"Lonborg pitched better than anybody I've faced the last two year or two," said Garvey. "That's pretty good testimony because I play 162 games a year and I see some good ones.

"I've seen more overpowering pitchers, like a Seaver, but as far as total control, Lonborg had it."

Meanwhile, Strom, a Met castoff, also had it all over Tom Seaver, who usually makes patsies out of the Padres, beating them in 18 of 19 previous decisions.

"My teammates told me I was the sacrificial lamb," said Strom, who surrendered a walk to Bud Harrelson in the sixth, a single to Joe Torre in the sixth and a single to Harrelson in the ninth.

"Once the no-hitter is gone I have to go for a one-hitter," said Strom, 3-1. "You have to forget what happened and just set another goal."

Pirates 5, Braves 2

The Pirates, riding high with six straight victories, only have to flex their muscles once a game to beat the anemic Braves, who have now dropped 13 straight games.

"Today we got four runs in one inning," said Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh. "And yesterday we won with a four-run inning. When we have failed to come up with the big inning, we have had trouble winning all season."

The Braves have had trouble bunching runs in even one inning.

"We just haven't been getting the hitting and, especially timely hitting," said Atlanta Manager Dave Bristol.

Astros 10, Cards 5

Houston has three homers in the past 10 games, all by Cliff Johnson, who drove in three runs with four hits to help beat St. Louis.

"I was a little more relaxed today," said Johnson, who smacked his fourth homer of the year. "I think today typified the kind of hitter I should be."

Reds 14, Cubs 2

The Big Red Machine went into overdrive Sunday, unleashing seven homers and 21 hits to steamroll Chicago.

Tony Perez slugged a pair of homers and Ken Griffey crashed his first major league grand slam.

Giants 4-0, Expes 2-8

Steve Rogers pitched the Expos' first complete game and first shutout of the season, tossing a two-hitter at the Giants in the second game of their doubleheader.

John Montefusco, 4-1, and reliever Gary Lavelle, who recorded his sixth save, teamed together to stop the Expos in the opener.

American League roundup

No panic in Boston yet

By Assoicted Press

There's no panic in Boston ... perhaps because Manager Darrell Johnson of the Red Sox has no buttons left to push.

"There's not much we can do with our line-up with three people laid up," Johnson said Sunday after the defending American League champs saw their losing streak reach nine in a row—longest since 1963—with a 6-5 come-from-ahead loss to the Texas Rangers.

With center fielder Fred Lynn, shortstop Rick Burleson and third baseman Rico Petrocelli all sidelined, the Red Sox bore little resemblance to the club that took Cincinnati to seven games in the 1975 World Series before losing on a bloop single in the ninth inning.

Elsewhere, the Oakland A's nipped the New York Yankees and ex-teammate Catfish Hunter 4-3 in 12 innings, the Minnesota Twins downed the Milwaukee Brewers 6-4, the Chicago White Sox held on to defeat the Detroit Tigers 4-2 for Wilbur Wood after the pitcher was struck by a line drive and suffered a broken left kneecap, the Kansas City Royals trimmed the Baltimore Orioles 7-4 and the California Angels edged the Cleveland Indians 3-2.

Seven of the setbacks in Boston's losing streak—the lastplace Red Sox are 8½ games out of first—have come at the hands of the Rangers, whose eight-game winning string is a club record.

This time, the Rangers rallied for two runs in the eighth inning on a walk, singles by Jim Sundberg and Juan Beniquez and second baseman Denny Doyle's throwing error on a potential double play ball, Boston's third miscue of the game. The Red Sox had an early 4-0 lead as Cecil Cooper and Jim Rice homered.

A's 4, Yankees 3

Bert Campaneris' sacrifice fly in the 12th inning scored Sal Bando as the A's defeated Hunter behind Paul Lindblad's brilliant seven-inning, one-hit relief stint.

Bando walked to start the inning and went all the way to third on Larry Lintz' sacrifice bunt when the bag was left uncovered. Hunter got to the base late and took a throw, but umpire Rich Garcia ruled he missed the tag. Campaneris then hit a line drive to right field to end the game.

Billy Williams homered for Oakland while Munson had a two-run double for New York, which saw its five-game winning streak snapped.

Twins 6, Brewers 4

The Twins snapped a tie with two runs in the eighth inning on rookie Butch Wynegar's triple, an intentional walk and a passed ball and throwing error by Milwaukee catcher Darrell Porter.

Reliever Bill Campbell of Pomona outdueled Milwaukee relief ace Ed Rodriguez to earn the triumph. Campbell pitched four innings, allowing just two hits and striking out six.

"He's not overpowering, but sneaky and quick," said Wynegar, the Twins' catcher. "And you can't imagine how much trouble that herky-jerky windup causes. When he sets hitters up with his screwball and comes back with a fast ball off that motion, he's tough. He pitches a lot like Rodriguez."

White Sox 4, Tigers 2

Wood, only pitcher in White Sox history to win 20 games four years in a row, blanked Detroit on three hits for 52-3 innings before he was hit by Ron LeFlore's line drive. The fractured kneecap may sideline him for the rest of the season.

Manager Paul Richards said Wood would be taken to Chicago "to determine if an operation is necessary and to see if they can do something to see if he can pitch again this year. But that's very doubtful."

Richards said he is considering replacing Wood with any of four pitchers—Pete Vuckovich, Jesse Jefferson, Francisco Barrios or Dave Hamilton.

Royals 7, Orioles 4

Bob Stinson and Frank White drove in two runs apiece as the Royals scored five times in the third inning and to defeat Jim Palmer and record their sixth victory in seven games.

Singles by George Brett and Al Cowens around a walk to Hal McRae got the first run home. Stinson doubled for two more and White's two-run single, after an error by third baseman Brooks Robinson, finished Palmer.

Cincinnati relief pitching told the story of the 1975 World Series. In the seventh and deciding game won by the Reds, the Boston Red Sox failed to get a hit in the final four innings.

Ripley misses shot at record

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — For the second week in a row, Dan Ripley missed three chances at the world's pole vault record.

"I really felt close to it, but it didn't have much control the last two jumps—I was spinning out of control," said Ripley after his win at the West Coast Relays with an 18-foot vault Saturday.

More than 13,700 fans watched as the San Jose vaulter attempted to clear the magical 18-7 mark that would have erased Dave Roberts pending world record of 18-6½.

Roberts, who set the record last year, cleared 18-4 at the San Jose Invitational a week earlier—as did Ripley—but failed to make 17-6 here.

Australian Don Baird also cleared 18 feet Saturday but Ripley was declared the winner on the basis of fewer misses at 17-feet.

Baird was happy with his performance because he was tired from making 200 jumps in practice Thursday. "I didn't see how I even picked up the pole tonight."

Ripley also was satisfied.

"I would have liked to have got the world mark, but it's still a little early. I'm not out of the running," he said.

"I really didn't expect to get this high so early in the season—I'm ahead of schedule."

In assessing his performance, Ripley said his weight may have been a factor. "I'm considered big for a pole vaulter and right now I weigh about 182—I'd like to be a little lighter."

Bjorn Borg shows he can win big one

DALLAS (AP) — It's not many tennis players who have to make a comeback at the tender age of 19 but that's what Bjorn Borg, the idol of the teenage bluejean set, has done.

Sweden's Borg, tagged by his critics as something of a choker in the clutch matches because he plays so often he has no stamina, captured the World Championship of Tennis title Sunday in his third trip to the finals.

A runnerup to John Newcombe of Australia in 1974 and Arthur Ashe in 1975, Borg routed good friend Guillermo Vilas of Argentina 1-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-1 for the $50,000 first place prize.

"If my critics want to continue to think I play too much and can't win the big ones, okay," the blond-haired baseline bomber said stiffly. "I was very happy to win because I had lost twice before here. Of course being 19 isn't the same as 17. My experience helped."

Borg, who now has won $137,000 this year, added the WCT crown to an Italian Open, a French Open and Davis Cup triumphs.

What next?

"My two ambitions are to win Wimbledon and the U.S. Open," said Borg. "I hope to win at least one of them this year."

Besides the big check, Borg won a luxury automobile, a $1,000 wardrobe, a diamond ring, and a diamond necklace for the lady of his choice.

Asked who the lady of his choice was, he laughed: "I don't have a lady. I think I'll give it to Guillermo."

Hundreds of teenage girls waited outside the interview room hoping to be his lady of choice.

A record crowd of 9,251 fans in Moody Coliseum began to buzz after Borg dropped the first set because of an obvious case of the jitters.

Borg said, "I became more patient after that and waited for my chance to come to the net off our long rallies."

The baseline duels with Vilas in the 2¾-hour match included one rally in which the ball went over the net 85 times. Borg won the point and it seemed to inspire him.

"I was very tired after that point but so was Guillermo," said Borg.

The two players, who have been close friends for five years and have moved their homes to Monte Carlo for tax advantages, practiced together Saturday and early Sunday before the match.

"It's possible to be friends and still play important matches against each other," said Vilas. "I wanted to win very badly. I can't remember Bjorn playing that well in a long time."

Asked if he was disturbed by a controversial lineman's call in the fourth set, Vilas just shrugged his shoulders.

"It did not decide the match although the ball was definitely out," said the 23-year-old Vilas, a former lawyer who has won over $500,000 and the Masters tournament in the past two years.

Vilas earned $20,000 to boost his total to $94,000 for the year.

Borg is off to Hawaii to meet Ile Nastase in a WCT challenge match on Sunday and Borg said, "I have lost a lot of matches to him but I think I have a good chance."

REACH FOR IT — Sweden's Bjorn Borg returns a wide shot hit by Argentina's Guillermo Vilas in finals of World Championship Tennis Tournament in Dallas, Tex., Sunday. Borg won $50,000 first prize money.

Wedge shot saves Sally Little

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — "I'm going to hit into the bunker all the time now," says Sally Little of South Africa after winning the first Women's International Golf Tournament by one stroke after her wedge shot from the sand rolled into the cup.

"When I saw the ball bounce and roll in, I was in supershock," said the 24-year-old blonde. "It's like a dream, and how many times do dreams come true?"

The dream was worth $10,000, the top prize won by Miss Little, who had a 35-35—70 for 18 holes Sunday. She finished with a seven-under 281, edging out Jan Stephenson of Australia, who also had a 35-35—70 for a six-under final score of 282. She won $7,500.

Miss Little began Sunday's final round one stroke ahead of Miss Stephenson. She lost the lead, regained it with two clutch birdies on the back nine and the lost it again with two bogeys.

The finish was a super end to the opening of the new tournament at Moss Creek Plantation's Devil's Elbow course, which sponsors hope will become the female counterpart of the Augusta Masters.

The two foreign golfers were far ahead of the field of top American professionals and amateurs. Their nearest competitors were Sandra Palmer and Betty Burfeindt, both of whom finished with one-over totals of 287.

Miss Little trailed Miss Stephenson by one-stroke after bogeys on the 13th, 15th and 17th. But she blasted from the trap on the par four 18th. The wedge shot traveled 75 feet, bouncing on the green and rolling into the cup as the gallery roared.

It was a thrilling finish for the South African, who now plays out of Dallas, Texas. She was the only golfer in the field of more than 70 to shoot subpar golf for all four rounds. Miss Stephenson had three rounds below par and an even par 72 in the second round.

The tie for third place was worth $5,500 each for Sandra Palmer and Betty Burfeindt.

Amy Alcott had an even par 288 for fifth place, good for $4,000, and Murle Breer was sixth with 289 which paid $3,000. The total purse for the tournament was $70,000.

Driver nixes women racers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Cale Yarborough, winner of NASCAR's Music City 420 Grand National race, says women could not drive competitively on the circuit.

"No way," Yarborough said Saturday night after notching his third Grand National victory this year. "Some women could run, but not competitively. And that's because of the Good Lord. They are just not physically strong enough.

"I'll make people mad, but that's the way I feel."

Last week Janet Guthrie made her debut in Indianapolis-type racing by competing in the Trentonian 200. She is entered in the Indianapolis 500.

But Yarborough is more concerned about winning his first NASCAR title.

"We're looking better every race," he said about his chances for the national title. "Daytona and Talladega are our biggest problem. So we've got them half behind us.

"We've won $33,000 in six days. That ain't bad. I feel if we win the championship, we'll win the money race, too."

Of that $33,000, $10,000 was for winning the first leg of the title. He accomplished that by finishing second in the Winston 500 at Talladega, Ala., last Sunday.

Saturday night he led most of the race but beat Richard Petty by only about two seconds. Pole sitter Benny Parsons was third.

"Richard was equal to us as long as we were out of traffic," said Yarborough, who has won four of the last seven Grand National races at the five-eighths mile Nashville Speedway.

"He had to follow the traffic but we could get around them."

Filling out the top 10, in order, were Buddy Baker, Bobby Allison, Lennie Pond, Dave Marcis, Walter Ballard, David Sisco and Frank Warren. David Pearson did not compete.

Eighteen-year-old Sterling Marlin of Columbia, Tenn., became one of the youngest drivers to compete in a Grand National race. Filling in for his injured father, Coo Coo, Marlin was one of the first drivers to go out.

"He has a lot of potential," said Yarborough, who drove in a Grand National race when he was 17. "I watched him in practice, and he looked real smooth. I'd say he'll have to be reckoned with in the future."

Marlin went out when his timing chain broke on lap 60. Just before that, he spun out in the last turn, barely hitting the wall.

Cards ink grid vets

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Seven-year veteran quarterback Sam Wyche and linebacker Bill Ferguson have been signed as free agents by the St. Louis Cardinals, the National Football League team announced Saturday.

Wyche, 31, signed with the Cincinnati Bengals in 1968, was traded to the Washington Redskins in 1971 and went to the Detroit Lions in 1974.

The 6-foot-4, 220-pound quarterback played in all 14 of the Lions' games last season, primarily as a holder on place kicks.

Ferguson, 25, was a fourth-round draft choice of the New York Jets in 1973 and was released by the team just prior to the 1975 season.

Joyce Brothers

Unwed mother at 15

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm 15 and in three months I'll have my baby. It'll be the first time I've ever had anything that belongs just to me. My parents are against my keeping the baby and they refuse to help me in any way. I've always wanted to have lots of babies and it would break my heart if I had to give my first child up. I'll do anything to keep it. — S.B.

Dear S.B.: I'm not sure you're not going to like what I'm about to say but for the sake of your unborn child, I'm going to say it anyway. I doubt that any 15-year-old has the maturity necessary to make a really good parent. Teenagers haven't had enough experience living their own lives. When they try to take on the responsibility for another life, they frequently become resentful of the time they have to spend meeting the endless chain of demands that every infant makes in order to survive.

I think when an infant is involved, there must be a shift in emphasis from what is best for the parents to what is best for the child. No matter how much you want this baby, the important decision is what is best for him, not for you. This is just the first step in a long list of sacrifices that good parents make for their children.

Infants are helpless and need to receive love. They are incapable of giving the love that some young parents seem to need and expect. Most very young parents are searching for the reassuring love and affection they wanted from their own parents. When they have children only in an attempt to fill their emptiness, child abuse and ne9'dlect often result.

Many young women cling to infants not out of love but out of rebellion against parents or anger against the man who fathered the child.

For your baby's sake, I think it would be kinder to give it to someone who is emotionally and economically able to give it what it needs.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband retired two years ago and, frankly, things have been pretty dull. Our son lives near us but he and his family have their own lives to live and can't entertain us all the time. My husband has been toying with the idea of moving to a retirement community in a warmer climate but I'm afraid it will be filled with people who want to do nothing but play cards or gossip all day. — A.N.

Dear A.N.: Only you and your husband can decide whether or not a retirement community would be best for you. The best way to find out would be to visit a prospective community to see for yourself. If it's not your way of living, it might be better for you both to develop outside interests in your own community.

Adjusting to the increased amount of leisure that comes with retirement is often more difficult than anticipated. Although the individual, when he was employed, may have dreamed about the freedom from responsibility and the abundance of free time, he may find actual retirement dissappointing. Irrationally, he may feel that by not being employed he is a second-class member of society. If he feels guilty about his free time, he may be unable to become absorbed in purely pleasurable activities.

Some social scientists feel adjustment to retirement leisure is made easier in a community of persons in a similar situation.

The older adult may feel conspicuously inactive in a community of persons of various ages while in a community of his peers, where relaxation and recreational activities are an important part of each day, he may find it easier to accept his new leisure.

I think it would be wise to consider the advantages and disadvantages of both sides of this question and together make your decision.

If you live in the country or in a small town, your water very likely comes from a well that has been drilled into the ground.

The water that flows into wells is called ground water. It comes from rain and melted snow that filters down into the ground.

Eventually, the water reaches a level where the soil is so tightly packed that it can go no farther, and the layers of sand and rock above become filled with water.

The topmost level of ground water is called the water table. To provide water, a well must be dug deep enough to strike the water table.

In some places, the water table may lie only a few feet below the surface. It is easily reached by digging.

In drier places, the water table may be hundreds of feet down. Then it is necessary to drill the well and sink pipes. Power-driven pumps are usually used to draw the water out of deep wells.

Underground water is usually pure because the soil makes a good filter.

World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Now–$1 starts your coverage under the new Physicians Mutual policy that pays you cash benefits from the very first day you're in the hospital–$900 a month ($30 a day).

We guarantee to issue you this insurance–regardless of your age, health or family size. Then you can renew for as little as $7.55 a month–depending on your age.

- Pays cash benefits from the very first day of hospitalization.
- Pays $900 a month cash–$30 a day–for you, your wife and children for a covered accident or sickness.
- We guarantee to issue you this policy.
- New sicknesses and accidents are both covered immediately.
- No limit to the number of days you can collect cash benefits.
- Cash benefits paid direct to you–to spend as you wish–unless you tell us otherwise.
- Pays over and above any other insurance you may have–including Medicare.
- Guaranteed renewable for life.

These days, one of the most scary things about going to the hospital is the final bill. Inflation has driven up the average price of hospitalization in the United States to $130 a day according to the American Hospital Association. So even if you already have basic hospital insurance, it only covers part of the cost. You have to come up with the rest.

Meanwhile, if you're hospitalized for any length of time, your income may stop. And those bills will keep piling up at home—rent, loans, mortgage, telephone, utilities, credit card and all the rest. Pretty soon, you could find most of your savings are eaten up. You could even wind up deeply in debt.

Now for the good news: Physicians Mutual Insurance Company—run by doctors since 1902—has created this new Physicians Mutual Plan to help give you and your family extra protection against the high cost of hospitalization. Here's how it works—and why you should enroll now:

$900 a month—$30 a day—cash!

Hospital rates are usually the same for everybody. That's why this policy pays the same $30 a day cash benefit when you, your wife or any of your children are hospitalized for any covered sickness or accident. Compare these benefits with other policies that pay reduced benefits for dependents.

Double benefits for you and your wife!

When your wife is covered and both of you are hospitalized at the same time due to accidents, your daily benefits are increased. That's right, you get twice the regular cash benefit—$3,600 a month ($120 a day) to help you through this emergency. By the way, hospitalization doesn't have to be due to the same accident: you and your wife could be injured in unrelated accidents.

Pays you maternity benefits, too!

You'll collect full benefits—$30 a day—for hospitalization due to pregnancy or any pregnancy complication, if coverage includes your wife and if your policy has been in force for 10 months or more.

No waiting period for new sicknesses or accidents.

You're covered the very minute your policy is issued and put in force for new sicknesses—and accidents. That means you could be rushed to the hospital a few minutes after you get your policy—and be able to start collecting your $30 a day benefits immediately, starting that very day!

You get lifetime coverage and benefits.

There's no limit on the number of days for which you can collect cash benefits. You can be hospitalized as often as necessary and stay as long as you have to—knowing that your $30 a day benefits cannot run out. Our plan will pay you benefits for as long as you're hospitalized for a covered accident or sickness—even for life!

Pays cash benefits in addition to any other insurance you have.

Remember, this is extra, supplemental protection. Your benefits are paid over and above any other insurance you may carry—including Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Major Medical and Medicare. This policy is designed to help you make up the difference between your total hospital bill and what your other insurance will pay.

Your policy is guaranteed renewable.

Don't forget, this extra protection is yours as long as you want to have it and pay your premiums when due. We cannot drop you or refuse to renew your coverage because your health changes, or because you're a few years older, or because you've submitted a number of claims. On the other hand, you can drop your policy on any renewal date. Also, your premium can never be increased unless premiums are raised on all policies like yours in your entire state.

Please note these exceptions.

Pre-existing conditions (health problems that became evident or were medically treated before the effective date of the policy) are not covered for one year from the date the policy is issued. Half-benefits ($15 a day) are paid for up to 4 weeks confinement due to mental disorder. Not covered is hospitalization for alcoholism, drug addiction or any condition covered by Workmen's Compensation or Employers Liability Law benefits. Confinement in nursing homes, U.S. Government Hospitals for which there is no charge, or the self-care, extended-care or convalescent units of hospitals is not covered. Pregnancy or any consequence is covered only if husband and wife are both covered.

Backed by Physicians Mutual—the company run by doctors since 1902.

From its founding in 1902 until 1962, the Company specialized in health insurance for physicians, surgeons and dentists exclusively. Then, recognizing the growing need for insurance to supplement basic hospital coverage, Physicians Mutual began making such protection available to the general public. We were one of the first companies to do so. Today, our various policies protect over 1,000,000 Americans in all walks of life.

Remember, you're doing business with a company that delivers what it promises. Last year, we paid claims totalling over $48,000,000 on all policies. That's a return of 70% of premium income paid out in benefits to policyowners—one of the highest in the entire insurance industry.

Physicians Mutual Insurance Company is a mutual insurance company headquartered in Omaha, Nebraska and is not, of course, affiliated with any national, state or local medical association.

We can't say "No" to you.

Don't worry, we guarantee to issue you a policy. You will not be turned down because of your age, health or size of your family.

As soon as we receive your Application we will issue your policy (P350 Series) and put it in force. From that day on—even before you receive your policy in the mail—you're covered for new sicknesses and accidents. Naturally, we can issue only one policy to you on a guaranteed issue basis.

If you're already a Physicians Mutual policyowner and would like information about additional coverage available to you, please write or call for details.

You can apply for this new Physicians Hospital Policy right from this page. All you need do is fill out the short Application and mail it together with $1—which pays for your first month.

No salesman will call or visit you.

If you have any questions about this policy, call 800-228-9100 toll-free from anywhere in the continental United States. Our Customer Service staff is ready to serve you from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Central Time, Monday through Friday.

Now! Choose the Physicians Mutual Plan that fits your needs best.

One of these 4 plans is right for you:

Individual Plan

Choose this plan if you're single or only want to cover one member of the family. Pays you $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when you're hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident.

Husband-Wife Plan

Designed for the married couple without children or whose children are grown and no longer dependent. Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when either husband or wife is in the hospital for a covered sickness or accident. $30 a day maternity benefits after 10 months. And benefits double ($3,600 a month—$120 a day) if both husband and wife are hospitalized at the same time due to accidents!

All-Family Plan

Offers protection for the whole family. Covers you, your wife and all your eligible dependent children—including future additions. Pays $900 a month—$30 a day—when any insured family member is hospitalized. And benefits double ($3,600 a month—$120 a day) if both husband and wife are hospitalized at the same time due to accidents!

One-Parent Family Plan

Created especially for the special needs of the single parent with children. Covers you and all your eligible dependent children. Pays $900 a month cash—$30 a day—when you or any of your insured children are hospitalized for a covered sickness or accident.

$1 pays for the first month for the plan of your choice–regardless of your age or the size of your family.

Then renew at the rate for your age shown below.

Monthly Renewal Rates

	Under 40	40 and Over
	(Use age of principal insured)
Individual Plan	$ 7.55	$ 9.95
Husband-Wife Plan	13.65	18.75
All-Family Plan	16.85	21.95
One-Parent Family Plan	10.75	13.15

Note: Your renewal rate does not increase as you move from one age group to another.

Special provision applies for folks 65 or over.

Physicians Mutual warmly welcomes your application for this new, extra protection hospital policy. And we guarantee to accept you regardless of your age or health.

Perhaps you're thinking that because you have Medicare, you don't need additional coverage. Not so. Despite its many fine features, Medicare does not cover all of your hospital expenses. That's why our new policy pays you daily cash benefits to help meet expenses—and for every day of your hospital stay, regardless of how long it might be.

No rate increase at age 65.

We also know most older folks are on a fixed and often limited budget. So, instead of raising rates when you become 65, we pay half-benefits ($15 a day—$450 a month) for the first 60 days of hospitalization after age 65. You get the full $30 a day—$900 a month—after that. And your monthly premium continues to be the same as when you first applied.

So you'll have cash coming in when you're laid up in the hospital—regardless of how long you may have to stay. Apply today for this new, extra protection hospital policy.

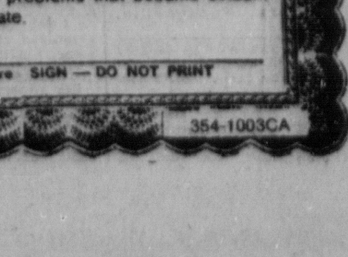

Mail your Application today. 30-day money-back guarantee!

Regardless of your age or health, your policy will be issued just as soon as we receive your completed Application. There are no health questions to answer—no salesman to see. Just send your completed Application and your policy will be issued immediately. It's as simple as that to make sure you have additional protection against the high cost of hospitalization.

And, if for any reason at all, you decide that you do not want this protection, you may return the policy within 30 days and your dollar will be refunded, no questions asked.

Your Policy comes in this handsome vinyl wallet.

It's a convenient way to keep your important personal papers in one place. With your policy you also receive a Claim Form. It's easy to use and assures prompt processing of your claim when an accident or sickness puts you in the hospital.

Money-Back Guarantee

We will send you your Physicians Mutual Hospital Policy (Form P350 Series) by mail. When you receive it, read it through. You will see that it is honest, direct to the point and easy to understand. If for any reason, you decide that you do not want this protection, you may return the policy within 30 days and we will promptly refund your dollar.

- That respects the validity of previous personal and work experiences which can be translated into college credit;
- That enables a student to increase job mobility, to change careers and/or to pursue more challenging and responsible positions;
- That broadens personal perspectives; discovers new meanings, experiences, values; and offers a fuller realization of personal potential and life enrichment.
